Reparenting Schizophrenics The Cathexis Experience:

Reparenting Schizophrenics Elaine Childs-Gowell, 2000-10 Reparenting Schizophrenics is the result of ethnographic research into the healing rituals of a western psychiatric community in the 1970s and of how rituals adaptation and Transactional Analysis intersect to create change in individuals suffering from schizophrenia The Transactional Analysis structure is delineated as a basis for teaching individuals how to separate thoughts and feelings how to think about problems and how to use cognitive behavioral and developmental approaches to the healing of individuals who are profoundly disturbed The process known as Reparenting involves both in patient and outpatient treatment and cognitive behavioral methods coupled with regressions and healthy parenting to bring about change in the participants in the Cathexis Institute

Reparenting Schizophrenics Elaine Childs-Gowell, 1979      Transactional Analysis Approaches to Brief Therapy Keith Tudor, 2002-02-05 Of all the approaches to therapy Transactional Analysis or TA is arguably one of those most suited to time limited work At a time when short term therapy is increasingly dominant as a form of practice Transactional Analysis Approaches to Brief Therapy provides an insightful guide which both informs and challenges Rather than a single theory TA has developed as a group of four schools which share a common philosophy but place different emphasis on what occurs during the therapeutic process Written by therapists at the leading edge of developments in TA the book presents and differentiates each of these four approaches Through transcripts and commentaries it shows how theory applies to practice for example      Contextual Transactional Analysis James M. Sedgwick, 2020-06-15 Contextual Transactional Analysis The Inseparability of Self and World offers a novel and comprehensive reworking of key concepts in transactional analysis offering insight into the causes of psychological distress and closing the gap between training and clinical practice By providing a bigger picture as much sociological as psychological of what it means to be human the book makes an essential contribution to current debates about how best to account for and work with the social and cultural dimensions of client experience James M Sedgwick captures the ongoing importance of what happens around us and the distinctive kinds of psychological distress that arise from persistent and pervasive environmental disadvantage Beginning with a view of people as always situated and socialised the book highlights the many ways that the world always and everywhere constrains or enables thought and action Ranging through ideas about the kinds of contextual conditions which might make psychological distress more likely and illuminating the complex relationship between socialisation and autonomy the book suggests what the implications of these conclusions might be for clinical understanding and practice Sedgwick's insightful and compassionate work revises the theoretical framework fills a current gap in the clinical literature and points the way to greater practitioner efficacy Contextual Transactional Analysis will be an insightful addition to the literature for transactional analysts in practice and in training for professionals interested in the theory and practice of transactional analysis and anyone seeking to understand the contribution of context to psychological distress See the below link for an interview about
