This text summarizes the challenges and potential solutions scientists, policy makers, and clinical providers must address as they grapple with these changes, with a primary focus given to the elements that may impact how family caregiving is organized and addressed in subsequent decades, including sociodemographic trends like divorce, increased participation of women in the workforce, geographic mobility, fewer children in post baby boom families, chronic illness trends, economic stressors, and the current policy environment. A section on the support of caregivers includes technology-based solutions that examine existing models, personal health records, and mobile applications; big data issues; decision making support; person-centered approaches; crowd-sourced caregiving such as blogs and personal websites that have galvanized caregivers; and new methods to combine paid and unpaid forms of care. Provides a concise roadmap of the demographic, economic, health trends, and policy challenges facing family caregivers. Presents potential solutions to caregiving so that scientists, policymakers, and clinical providers can best meet the needs of families and communities in the upcoming decades.
