Researching Subcultures, Myth and Memory Bart van der Steen,Thierry P.F. Verburgh,2020-07-30 This book brings together contributions that analyse how subcultural myths develop and how they can be studied Through critical engagement with history writing and other sources on subcultures by contemporaries veterans popular media and researchers it aims to establish how stories and histories of subcultures emerge and become canonized through the process of mythification which developments and actors are crucial in this process and finally how researchers like historians sociologists and anthropologists should deal with these myths and myth making processes By considering these issues and questions in relation to mythmaking this book provides new insights on how to research the identity history and cultural memory of youth subcultures Objectifying China, Imagining America Caroline Frank,2011 With the ever expanding presence of China in the global economy Americans more and more look east for goods and trade But as Caroline Frank reveals this is not a new development China loomed as large in the minds and account books of eighteenth century Americans as it does today Long before they had achieved independence from Britain and were able to sail to Asia themselves American mariners merchants and consumers were aware of the East Indies and preparing for voyages there Focusing on the trade and consumption of porcelain tea and chinoiserie Frank shows that colonial Americans saw themselves as part of a world much larger than just Britain and Europe Frank not only recovers the widespread presence of Chinese commodities in early America and the impact of East Indies trade on the nature of American commerce but also explores the role of this trade in American state formation She argues that to understand how Chinese commodities fueled the opening acts of the Revolution we must consider the power dynamics of the American quest for china and China during the colonial period Filled with fresh and surprising insights this ambitious study adds new dimensions to the ongoing story of America's relationship with China

Deconstructing History Alun Munslow, 1997 In Deconstructing History Alan Munslow examines history in the postmodern age providing an introduction to the topics and debates inherent in a postmodern approach to history Detailing both empiricist and deconstruction issues and considering the arguments of both schools Munslow debates the position that not only is history defined as the textual product of historians but also that narrative may provide the textual model for the past itself An examination of the character of historical evidence and an exploration of the role of historians as well as a discussion of the failure of traditional historical models is included Munslow maps the controversies involved in and assesses the merits of the deconstructionist position arguing that instead of beginning with past events themselves history begins with representations of the past

Rethinking American History in a Global Age Thomas Bender, 2002-05-14 In rethinking and reframing the American national narrative in a wider context the contributors to this volume ask questions about both nationalism and the discipline of history itself The essays offer fresh ways of thinking about the traditional themes and periods of American history By locating the study of American history in a transnational context they examine the history of nation making and the relation of the United States to other nations and to transnational developments What is now called globalization is here placed in a historical context A cast of distinguished historians from the United States and abroad examines the historiographical implications of such a reframing and offers alternative interpretations of large questions of American history ranging from the era of European contact to democracy and reform from environmental and economic development and migration experiences to issues of nationalism and identity But the largest issue explored is basic to all histories How does one understand teach and write a national history even as one recognizes that the territorial boundaries do not fully contain that history and that within that bounded territory the society is highly differentiated marked by multiple solidarities and identities Rethinking American History in a Global Age advances an emerging but important conversation marked by divergent voices many of which are represented here The various essays explore big concepts and offer historical narratives that enrich the content and context of American history The aim is to provide a history that more accurately reflects the dimensions of American experience and better connects the past with contemporary concerns for American identity structures of power and world presence

Authentic Fakes David Chidester,2005-04-18 Authentic Fakes explores the religious dimensions of American popular culture in unexpected places baseball the Human Genome Project Coca Cola rock n roll the rhetoric of Ronald Reagan the charisma of Jim Jones Tupperware and the free market to name a few Chidester travels through the cultural landscape and discovers the role that fakery in the guise of frauds charlatans inventions and simulations plays in creating religious experience His book is at once an incisive analysis of the relationship between religion and popular culture and a celebration of the myriad ways in which invention can stimulate the religious imagination Moving beyond American borders Chidester considers the religion of McDonald's and Disney the discourse of W E B Du Bois and the American movement in Southern Africa the messianic promise of Nelson Mandela's 1990 tour to America and more He also looks at the creative possibilities of the Internet in such phenomena as Discordianism the Holy Order of the Cheesburger and a range of similar inventions Arguing throughout that religious fakes can do authentic religious work and that American popular culture is the space of that creative labor Chidester looks toward a future pregnant with the possibilities of new kinds of authenticity

Writing Security David Campbell,1992 No Escape Paul Passavant,2003-10 No Escape proves that liberal government and nationalism can mutually reinforce each other taking as its example a preeminent and seemingly universal liberal legal right freedom of speech and illustrating how it can function in a way that actually reproduces nationally exclusive conditions of power

Imagining Literacy Ramona Fernandez,2010-01-01 Defining the common knowledge a literate person should possess has provoked intense debate ever since the publication of E D Hirsch's controversial book Cultural Literacy What Every American Needs to Know Yet the basic concept of common knowledge Ramona Fernandez argues is a Eurocentric model ill suited to a society composed of many distinct cultures and many local knowledges In this book Fernandez decodes the ideological assumptions that underlie prevailing models of cultural literacy as she offers new ways of imagining and modeling mixed cultural and non print literacies In particular she challenges the biases inherent in the encyclopedias of knowledge promulgated by E D Hirsch and others by Disney World's EPCOT Center and by the Smithsonian Institution. In contrast to these she places the writings of Zora Neale Hurston, Maxine Hong Kingston, Gloria Anzaldúa and Leslie Marmon Silko whose works model a cultural literacy that weaves connections across many local knowledges and many ways of knowing. A
