Simulations are widely used in the military for training personnel analyzing proposed equipment and rehearsing missions and these simulations need realistic models of human behavior This book draws together a wide variety of theoretical and applied research in human behavior modeling that can be considered for use in those simulations It covers behavior at the individual unit and command level At the individual soldier level the topics covered include attention learning memory decisionmaking perception situation awareness and planning At the unit level the focus is on command and control The book provides short medium and long term goals for research and development of more realistic models of human behavior The Case For Human Factors in Industry and Government

Doing Good with Technologies:

Katinka Waelbers,2011-06-27 20th century technologies like cars the Internet and the contraceptive pill have altered our actions changed our perceptions and influenced our moral ideas for better and worse Upcoming technologies are bound to fulfill their own unique social roles How can we advance this social role so that it will support the good live and limit undesired changes This book explores whether we can take a forward looking responsibility to optimize the social roles of technologies In doing so the book discusses three issues first it aims to understand the social role of technologies second it explores what it means to accept responsibility for this social role and third it searches for some forward looking tools that help us to see how new technologies may influence human behavior In a rather unique approach this book combines the influential sociological research of Bruno Latour on the social impacts of technologies with the contemporary Aristotelianism of Alasdair MacIntyre

Artificial War:

Multiagent-based Simulation Of Combat Andrew Ilachinski,2004-06-14 Military conflicts particularly land combat possess the characteristics of complex adaptive systems combat forces are composed of a large number of nonlinearly interacting parts and are organized in a dynamic command and control network local action which often appears disordered self organizes into long range order military conflicts by their nature proceed far from equilibrium military forces adapt to a changing combat environment and there is no master voice that dictates the actions of every soldier i e battlefield action is decentralized Nonetheless most modern state of the art military simulations ignore the self organizing properties of combat This book summarizes the results of a multiyear research effort aimed at exploring the applicability of complex adaptive systems theory to the study of warfare and introduces a sophisticated multiagent based simulation of combat called EINSTein EINSTein whose bottom up generative approach to modeling combat stands in stark contrast to the top down or reductionist philosophy that still underlies most conventional military models is designed to illustrate how many aspects of land combat may be understood as self organized emergent phenomena Used worldwide by the military operations research community EINStein has pioneered the simulation of combat on a small to medium scale by using autonomous agents to model individual behaviors and personalities rather than hardware International Encyclopedia of Ergonomics and Human Factors - 3 Volume Set Informa Healthcare,Waldemar Karwowski,2006-03-15 The previous edition of the International Encyclopedia of Ergonomics and Human Factors made history as the first unified source of reliable information drawn from many realms of science and technology and created specifically with ergonomics professionals in mind It was also a winner of the Best Reference Award 2002 from the Engineering Libraries National Academies National Academies (U.S.),

Modeling Cost and Performance for Military Enlistment National Research Council,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Committee on Military Enlistment Standards,1994-02-01 This book describes a cost performance trade off model useful for illustrating the effects of budget decisions on the quality of expected performance in the military enlisted force The model links recruit quality to job performance on the one hand and personnel costs on the other Understanding these linkages provides a clear rationale based on performance and cost differences for choosing applicants for military service The book examines trends in the quality of military personnel from the beginning of the All Volunteer Force in 1974 to the year 2000 and beyond It discusses technical issues associated with the development of the various components of both cost and performance linkages and presents applications of the fully developed model Modeling and Simulation National Research Council,Computer Science and Telecommunications Board,Committee on Modeling and Simulation: Opportunities for Collaboration Between the Defense and Entertainment Research Communities,1997-10-19 The entertainment industry and the U S Department of Defense though differing widely in their motivations objectives and cultures share a common growing interest in modeling and simulation In entertainment modeling and simulation technologies drive multi billion dollar markets in video games virtual reality attractions and theme parks and film In DOD modeling and simulation provides a cost effective means of training troops developing doctrine and tactics and evaluating new and upgraded systems Modeling and Simulation explores both entertainment and military applications of modeling and simulation technology and examines ways in which the two communities can better leverage each others capabilities to strengthen the overall technology base It identifies common research challenges in immersive synthetic environments networked simulation and computer generated characters as well as the hardware and software tools needed to create simulated environments The book also discusses the differences in the business models of the entertainment and defense communities and addresses the need for continued support of multidisciplinary educational and research initiatives in modeling and simulation Scientific and Technical Aerospace
