Breaking the Heartland John D. Fowler, David B. Parker, 2011 The Civil War was arguably the watershed event in the history of the United States forever changing the nature of the Republic and the relationship of individuals to their government The war ended slavery and initiated the long road toward racial equality The United States now stands at the sesquicentennial of that event and its citizens attempt to arrive at an understanding of what that event meant to the past present and future of the nation Few states had a greater impact on the outcome of the nation's greatest calamity than Georgia Georgia provided 125 000 soldiers for the Confederacy as well as thousands more for the Union cause Also many of the Confederacy's most influential military and civilian leaders hailed from the state Georgia was vital to the Confederate war effort because of its agricultural and industrial output The Confederacy had little hope of winning without the farms and shops of the state Moreover the state was critical to the Southern infrastructure because of the river and rail links that crossed it and connected the western Confederacy to the eastern half Finally and perhaps most importantly the war was arguably decided in North Georgia with the Atlanta Campaign and Lincoln's subsequent reelection This campaign was the last forlorn hope for the Southern Republic and the Union's greatest triumph Despite the state's importance to the Confederacy and the war's ultimate outcome not enough has been written concerning Georgia's experience during those turbulent years The essays in this volume attempt to redress this dearth of scholarship They present a mosaic of events places and people exploring the impact of the war on Georgia and its residents and demonstrating the importance of the state to the outcome of the Civil War
