All That Hollywood Allows Jackie Byars,2000-11-09 All That Hollywood Allows explores the representation of gender in popular Hollywood melodramas of the 1950s the last decade in which film enjoyed a pivotal cultural position Both a work of feminist film criticism and theory and an analysis of popular culture this provocative book examines from a cultural studies perspective the top grossing film melodramas of that decade including A Streetcar Named Desire From Here to Eternity East of Eden Imitation of Life and Picnic Stereotypically viewed as a complacent and idyllic time the 1950s were actually a period of dislocation and great social change as Americans struggled to regain their equilibrium in the wake of World War II Jackie Byars argues that mass media texts of the period especially films provide evidence of society's consuming preoccupation with the domestic sphere the nuclear family and its values The melodramas included in her study appeared in theaters just as women were leaving their homes for the workplace Some films challenged and some reinforced previously sacrosanct gender roles Byars shows how Hollywood melodramas participated in interpreted and extended societal debates concerning family structure sexual divisions of labor and gender roles Byars's readings of these films assess a variety of critical methodologies and approaches to textual analysis some central to feminist film studies and some that previously have been bypassed by scholars in the field She specifically questions the validity of readings grounded solely on the premises of psychoanalysis arguing that the male norm inherent in the psychoanalytic viewpoint may well prevent us from hearing let alone understanding the female voices that make their way into the most patriarchal of films Byars thus critiques earlier approaches to the study of women's films and offers fresh readings emphasizing from several important perspectives the suppressed female voice

Heartland TV Victoria E. Johnson,2008-01-01 Winner of the 2009 Society for Cinema and Media Studies Katherine Singer Kovacs Book Award The Midwest of popular imagination is a Heartland characterized by traditional cultural values and mass market dispositions Whether cast positively as authentic pastoral populist hardworking and all American or negatively as backward narrow minded unsophisticated conservative and out of touch the myth of the Heartland endures Heartland TV examines the centrality of this myth to television s promotion and development programming and marketing appeals and public debates over the medium s and its audience s cultural worth Victoria E Johnson investigates how the square image of the heartland has been ritually recuperated on prime time television from The Lawrence Welk Show in the 1950s to documentary specials in the 1960s to The Mary Tyler Moore Show in the 1970s to Ellen in the 1990s She also examines news specials on the Oklahoma City bombing to reveal how that city has been inscribed as the epitome of a timeless pastoral heartland and concludes with an analysis of network branding practices and appeals to an imagined red state audience Johnson argues that non white queer and urban culture is consistently erased from depictions of the Midwest in order to reinforce its reassuring image as white and straight Through analyses of policy industry discourse and case studies of specific shows Heartland TV exposes the cultural function of the Midwest as a site of national transference and disavowal with regard to race sexuality and citizenship ideals
