Thinking Globally Acting Locally Peter Mittler, 2010 This unusual book is more than just the memoir of a distinguished career It is a history of the twentieth century reflected in the life and work of one individual It begins in 1938 with a year in the life of an eight year old Viennese Jewish boy as he experiences the worst and best of humanity from Nazi persecution to rescue by strangers through the Kindertransports It tells of his encounters with an English schooling system at its worst and best and of his formative years But this is not a story of one person s liberation That little refugee boy grew up to contribute to the liberation of hundreds of thousands of people world wide Influenced by his own early experiences Peter Mittler has spent a lifetime committed to the human rights of people with intellectual disabilities From their liberation from the big institutions left over from the nineteenth century to their inclusion in shaping the 2008 United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities it tells the story of a dynamic and powerful human rights movement It is perhaps the last great untold story the story of how persons with intellectual disabilities finally gained the right to respect value and autonomy and of the long struggle for schooling access to work and their own front door key This memoir weaves professional memories and accounts of collaboration across the global village with anecdotes and travellers tales to reflect a global perspective from someone who was there at every twist and turn working with families teachers researchers governments and self advocates for over 60 years to influence legislation and drive lasting reform

S. Morin, Christophe Maïano, Danielle Tracey, Rhonda G. Craven, 2017-03-01 Increasing numbers of children and adolescents internationally are being diagnosed with secondary health problems e.g. overweight obesity diabetes asthma anxiety etc due in part or at least related to a lack of physical activity Children and adolescents with various forms of special needs for example children and adolescents with physical or intellectual disabilities children and adolescents from disadvantaged social backgrounds and children and adolescents with chronic illnesses seem to be particularly at risk for secondary health problems which in the end limit their social participation and inclusion as well as their ability to achieve their full potential and to lead happy and fulfilling lives For these children and adolescents involvement in regular physical activities including fitness activities and sports may have far reaching benefits For instance organized physical activities are known to represent an effective vehicle for interventions for children and adolescents with special needs who do not seem to benefit as much as others from more traditional verbal oriented approaches Organized physical activities in or out of school further provide these children and adolescents with opportunities to interact in a positive manner with prosocial peers and adults who may serve as positive role models for them There is currently a paucity of research about physical activities that effectively include children and adolescents with a range of special needs or research that identifies evidence based strategies that seed success in maximizing the involvement in and the positive biopsychosocial outcomes associated with the practice of physical activity This dearth of research is impeding progress in addressing the biopsychosocial disadvantage that these children and adolescents encounter the development of new solutions for enabling full potential and ensuring that children and adolescents with special needs not only succeed but also flourish in life This volume includes examples of theory research policy and practice that will advance our understanding of how best to encourage these children and adolescents to participate regularly in physical activity how to maximize the biopsychosocial benefits of involvement in physical activities and how to ensure that these physical activities are inclusive for children and adolescents with special needs The focus will be placed on research derived physical activity practices that seed success for children and adolescents with special needs and new directions in theory research and practice that have implications for enhancing physical activity practices with at risk children and adolescents The themes covered in this volume include Strategies to maximise participation of children and adolescents with special needs in physical activity as a global priority Strategies to maximise the social inclusion of children and adolescents with special needs in general physical activities Effective physical education strategies to enhance biopsychosocial outcomes for children and adolescents with special needs Advancing the practice of educators and coaches to cultivate the social inclusion and participation in physical activity of children and adolescents with special needs and Challenging the meaning and implementation of inclusive practices in physical education globally
