Professional Chaplaincy and Clinical Pastoral Education Should Become More Scientific Larry Van De Creek, 2013-04-03 Does the scientific process belong in pastoral counseling Professional Chaplaincy and Clinical Pastoral Education Should Become More Scientific Yes and No examines the widespread ambivalence among pastoral caregivers and educators over the growing inclusion of science in pastoral care and counseling methodologies Twenty three seasoned professionals in the field give candid and sometimes emotional accounts of their interest in and reservations about the role scientific research plays in their profession Some authors look at the issue from a historical perspective others voice additional concerns A few make concrete proposals on how chaplaincy can become more scientific The result is a unique insight into the relationship between the secular and the religious The question of whether science belongs in pastoral care and counseling is moot pastoral care already makes extensive use of psychological testing and psychotherapeutic skills all products of scientific thinking But as technology becomes more dominant and health care delivery reflects a more corporate perspective pastoral caregivers and educators are divided on whether the changes represent the significant opportunity to improve a ministry or the surrender of the ministry's very essence The essays collected in Professional Chaplaincy and Clinical Pastoral Education Should Become More Scientific Yes and No go a step farther breaking down the issue of faith versus science into more specific questions for pastoral caregivers such as Can what you do be measured Do you have an obligation to embrace the challenge of change Is becoming more scientific a necessity for staying in touch with your health

Grace Oxford Textbook of Spirituality in Healthcare Mark Cobb, Christina Puchalski, Bruce Rumbold, 2012-08-09 The relationship between spirituality and healthcare is historical intellectual and practical and it has now emerged as a significant field in health research healthcare policy and clinical practice and training Understanding health and wellbeing requires addressing spiritual and existential issues and healthcare is therefore challenged to respond to the ways spirituality is experienced and expressed in illness suffering healing and loss If healthcare has compassionate regard for the humanity of those it serves it is faced with questions about how it understands and interprets spirituality what resources it should make available and how these are organised and the ways in which spirituality shapes and informs the purpose and practice of healthcare These questions are the basis for this resource which presents a coherent field of enquiry discussion and debate that is interdisciplinary international and vibrant There is a growing corpus of articles in medical and healthcare journals on spirituality in addition to a wide range of literature but there has been no attempt so far to publish a standard text on this subject Spirituality in Healthcare is an authoritative reference on the subject providing unequalled coverage critical depth and an integrated source of key topics Divided into six sections including practice research policy and training the project brings together international contributions from scholars in the field to provide a unique and stimulating resource Parish Nurses, Health Care Chaplains, and Community Clergy Larry Van De Creek, Sue Mooney, 2012-11-12 Understand the roles of these three unique professions and how collaboration can make each more effective This is the first book to clarify the roles and interprofessional dynamics of these three professions and describe how they can best work together Here you ll find theological perspectives on each profession practice models of collaborative programs and new resources to aid your professional growth In addition this book gives you a thorough historical overview of parish nursing and an introduction to health care chaplaincy as well as insightful analyses of the relationships of clergy and congregation to health care institutions Parish Nurses Health Care Chaplains and Community Clergy Navigating the Maze of Professional Relationships is a vital addition to your reference shelf This unique book written by experts in all three fields provides the necessary background to be an effective parish nurse including information on spiritual formation clinical pastoral education and more instruction on starting a parish health ministry effective ways that the disciplines can work together in congregational health ministries to provide the best possible spiritual care successful practice models that your ministry can emulate an examination of the health care institution s role in forming the spiritual care team resources to use to increase your ministry s effectiveness Parish Nurses Health Care Chaplains and Community Clergy is a must for practitioners educators and students who will be entering these vital professions Religion and Medicine Jeff Levin, 2020-04-15 Though the current political climate might lead one to suspect that religion and medicine make for uncomfortable bedfellows the two institutions have a long history of alliance From religious healers and religious hospitals to religiously informed bioethics and research studies on the impact of religious and spiritual beliefs on physical and mental well being religion and medicine have encountered one another from antiquity through the present day In Religion and Medicine Dr Jeff Levin outlines this longstanding history and the multifaceted interconnections between these two institutions The first book to cover the full breadth of this subject it documents religion medicine alliances across religious traditions throughout the world and over the course of history Levin summarizes a wide range of material in the most comprehensive introduction to this emerging field of scholarship to date

Spiritual Needs & Pastoral Services Larry VandeCreek,2010-11-01 What do spiritual needs health care pastoral services religious resources statistics and quantitative research methods have in common Traditional literature in the pastoral care counseling and education movement probably would say Not a great deal Indeed the pastoral arts and sciences have tended to be high on art especially praxis but relatively low on science especially quantitative research That s too bad claims Dr Larry VandeCreek who has gathered together a sample of previously published but widely scattered research reports which he hopes will inform hospital chaplains congregational pastors hospital personnel and theological students on ways in which knowledge gained from carefully designed research can enhance their project of care Selecting only quantitative research reports the volume explores such topics as the role of spirituality in terminally ill hospitalized patients the demonstrated helpfulness of prayer in health crisis the possible impact of hope among women with breast cancer the role and impact of chaplaincy services in general hospitals as well as other studies demonstrating a variety of relationships between spirituality and health care
