Labour Internationalism in the Global South Robert O'Brien, 2019-01-03 Labour internationalism is often viewed as impossible or inevitable depending upon political perspective O'Brien argues for a more nuanced diverse understanding of labour internationalism identifying six different faces shaped by the national or global orientation of particular groups in the fields of production regulation and ideas Providing a general view of labour's global activity and a case study of the Southern Initiative on Globalisation and Trade Union Rights SIGTUR the book illustrates how the productive and regulatory structures of the global economy are pushing labour internationalism in particular directions It details how leftist unions in Argentina Australia Brazil India the Philippines South Africa and South Korea have tried to bridge their differences and launch collective actions Drawing upon twenty years of participant observation O'Brien reveals a specific Global South approach based upon anti imperialism anti capitalism and empathetic internationalism

The Urbanization of Green Internationalism Yonn Dierwechter, 2018-09-25 The recent rise of cities in global environmental politics has stimulated remarkable debates about sustainable urban development and the geopolitics of a changing world order no longer defined by tightly bordered national regimes This book explores this major theme by drawing on approaches that document the diverse histories and emergent geographies of internationalism It is no longer possible the book argues to analyze the global politics of the environment without considering its various urbanizations wherein multiple actors are reforming reassembling and adapting to nascent threats posed by global ecological decay The ongoing imposition and abrasion of different world orders Westphalian and post Westphalian further suggests we need a wider frame to capture new kinds of urbanized spaces and global green politics The book will appeal to students scholars and practitioners interested in global sustainability urban development planning politics and international affairs Case studies and grounded examples of green internationalism in urban action ultimately explore how select city regions like Cape Town Los Angeles and Melbourne are trying to negotiate and actually work through this postulated dilemma

Power in Coalition Amanda Tattersall,2013-01-14 The labor movement sees coalitions as a key tool for union revitalization and social change but there is little analysis of what makes them successful or the factors that make them fail

Amanda Tattersall an organizer and labor scholar addresses this gap in the first internationally comparative study of coalitions between unions and community organizations She argues that coalition success must be measured by two criteria whether campaigns produce social change and whether they sustain organizational strength over time The book contributes new practical frameworks and insights that will help guide union and community organizers across the globe The book throws down the gauntlet to industrial relations scholars and labor organizers making a compelling case for unions to build coalitions that wield power with community organizations Tattersall presents three detailed case studies the public education coalition in Sydney the Ontario Health Coalition in Toronto and the living wage campaign run by the Grassroots Collaborative in Chicago Together they enable Tattersall to explore when and how coalition unionism is the best and most appropriate strategy for social change organizational development and union renewal Power in Coalition presents clear lessons She suggests that less is more because it is often easier to build stronger coalitions with fewer organizations making decisions and sharing resources The role of the individual she finds is traditionally underestimated even though a coalition s success depends on a leader s ability to broker relationships between organizations while developing the campaign s strategy The crafting of goals that combine organizational interest and the public interest and take into account electoral politics are crucial elements of coalition success
