Rome and Carthage Reginald Bosworth Smith, 1887 What If Carthage Won the Punic Wars? An Alternative History of the Conflict Between Rome and Carthage Charles River, 2020-09-21 Includes pictures Includes online resources and a bibliography for further reading Rome and Carthage rarely could maintain peace after the end of the 4th century BCE As the two most powerful civilizations in the western Mediterranean they were destined to clash curse or not Roman historians placed the foundation of Carthage at approximately 814 BCE several decades before Rome The settlers of Carthage were of Phoenician descent tracing their ancestry back to the great city of Tyre on the southern coast of Lebanon but Carthage soon transformed from a minor Phoenician colony into the capital of its own growing civilization The city itself was well positioned for shipping and it soon dominated maritime trade Along with that the Carthaginians built a powerful and well trained navy whose protection combined with its strategic location made the city of Carthage a formidable prospect to attack At its height Carthage housed several hundred thousand inhabitants living under a republican governmental system operated by the Carthaginian Senate As Carthage grew it began to expand conquering by sea and establishing new colonies to improve trade networks One of the Carthaginians key objectives was Sicily Certain foreign policy decisions led to continuing enmity between Carthage and the burgeoning power of Rome and what followed was a series of wars which turned from a battle for Mediterranean hegemony into an all out struggle for survival Although the Romans gained the upper hand in the wake of the First Punic War Hannibal brought the Romans to their knees for over a decade during the Second Punic War While military historians are still amazed that he was able to maintain his army in Italy near Rome for nearly 15 years scholars are still puzzled over some of his decisions including why he never attempted to march on Rome in the first place After the serious threat Hannibal posed during the Second Punic War the Romans didn't wait much longer to take the fight to the Carthaginians in the Third Punic War which ended with Roman legions smashing Carthage to rubble As legend has it the Romans literally salted the ground upon which Carthage stood to ensure its destruction once and for all Despite having a major influence on the Mediterranean for nearly five centuries little evidence of Carthage's past might survives The city itself was reduced to nothing by the Romans who sought to erase all physical evidence of its existence and though its ruins have been excavated they have not provided anywhere near the wealth of archaeological items or evidence as ancient locations like Rome Athens Syracuse or even Troy Today Carthage is a largely unremarkable suburb of the city of Tunis and though there are some impressive ancient monuments there for tourists to explore the large majority of these are the result of later Roman settlement The Punic Wars spanned more than a century brought the loss of approximately 400 000 lives and eventually led to the utter defeat and destruction of Carthage but it was no easy victory for Rome and on several occasions the young Roman Republic was close to annihilation Given what happened in the wake of the Punic Wars historians have long been left to ponder what might have happened had the Carthaginians won especially given how close Hannibal came to accomplishing such a victory against Rome during the Second Punic War What if Carthage Won the Punic Wars An Alternative History of the Conflict Between Rome and Carthage profiles the conflict and examines how events may have gone quite differently for Europe if Rome had been defeated Between Rome and Carthage Michael P. Fronda, 2010-06-10 Hannibal invaded Italy with the hope of raising widespread rebellions among Rome's subordinate allies Yet even after crushing the Roman army at Cannae he was only partially successful Why did some communities decide to side with Carthage and others to side with Rome This is the fundamental question posed in this book and consideration is given to the particular political diplomatic military and economic factors that influenced individual communities' decisions Understanding their motivations reveals much not just about the war itself but also about Rome's relations with Italy during the prior two centuries of aggressive expansion The book sheds new light on Roman imperialism in Italy the nature of Roman hegemony and the transformation of Roman Italy in the period leading up to the Social War It is informed throughout by contemporary political science theory and archaeological evidence and will be required reading for all historians of the Roman Republic

Bosworth Smith, 2017-12-19 The battles for control of the lands of Middle Sea This book usefully concisely and comprehensively describes the history of the conflict that raged for a century between the Roman Republic and the Carthaginian Empire In the ancient world these were among the largest conflicts ever fought At the outset of this struggle the Carthaginians who had come from Phoenician beginnings were the dominant power in the Mediterranean region Rome was aggressively in the ascendant grasping territory with ruthless efficiency Each side realised that there was only room for one power of imperial influence in the region and that this was a war without compromise victory or annihilation The famous and infamous commanders of both forces appear within these pages including the indomitable Hannibal Barca and Scipio Africanus together with the equally renowned battles and campaigns that they fought from Spain to Italy and upon the sands of North Africa itself The contest resulted of course in the destruction of Carthage as Rome rose

Levin,2011-12 The Death of Carthage tells the story of the Second and third Punic wars that took place between ancient Rome and Carthage in three parts The first book Carthage Must Be Destroyed covering the second Punic war is told in the first person by Lucius Tullius Varro a young Roman of equestrian status who is recruited into the Roman cavalry at the beginning of the war in 218 BC Lucius serves in Spain under the Consul Publius Cornelius Scipio and his brother the Proconsul Cneius Cornelius Scipio Captivus the second book is narrated by Lucius s first cousin Enneus who is recruited to the Roman cavalry under Gaius Flaminius and taken prisoner by Hannibal s general Maharbal after the disastrous Roman defeat at Lake Trasimene in 217 BC Enneus is transported to Greece and sold as a slave where he is put to work as a shepherd on a large estate and establishes his life there The third and final book The Death of Carthage is narrated by Enneus s son Ectorius As a rare bilingual Ectorius becomes a translator and serves in the Roman army during the war and witnesses the total destruction of Carthage in the year 146 BC This historical saga full of minute details on day to day life in ancient times depicts two great civilizations on the cusp of influencing the world for centuries to come Rome and Carthage R. Punic Wars Kelly Mass, The Punic Wars were a series of three major conflicts fought between the Roman Republic and the ancient city state of Carthage from 264 BC to 146 BC These wars were pivotal in shaping the balance of power in the ancient Mediterranean ultimately resulting in the complete destruction of Carthage and the rise of Rome as the dominant power in the region The first war known as the First Punic War began in 264 BC centered around the strategic island of Sicily According to the Greek historian Polybius it was the longest and most bitterly waged battle in history The conflict ignited when Rome's growing imperial ambitions clashed with Carthage's established control over the island Carthage a formidable maritime power with a vast network of colonies across the western Mediterranean saw Sicily as vital to its prosperity Rome a land based power with a strong army but a comparatively weak navy sought to challenge Carthage's dominance at sea Over the course of the war naval engagements dominated and the conflict resulted in significant losses for both sides Despite initial setbacks Rome ultimately prevailed after 23 years of intense fighting inflicting severe losses on the Carthaginian fleet and forcing Carthage to pay massive reparations The island of Sicily became Rome's first province marking a significant step in the Republic's expansion The end of the First Punic War also saw the outbreak of the Mercenary War within Carthage's borders a revolt by who claimed to be direct descendants of Queen Dido the founder of Carthage Hamilcar's palace was located on the hill of Birse standing out from the tall white buildings of the city overlooking the Gulf of Tunis and the Mediterranean Sea to the north of Carthage There is little information about Hannibal's childhood and education it is known that he had a Spartan preceptor called Sosilos with whom he learned Greek letters the history of Alexander the Great and the art of war the boy expressed himself fluently in Greek language as it corresponded to the members of the Carthaginian elite Carthage like most of the Mediterranean world was deeply influenced by Greek culture even in adolescence he had already mastered the mode of reasoning and action that the Greeks called Mētis based on intelligence and cunning Hannibal would only live in Carthage during the first years of his childhood then he would remain during his youth in Hispania and then in Italy He would return to the city of his birth many years later in the final period of his life However it was his love for Carthage that motivated him to lead his armies against Rome to wage war on Italian soil for sixteen years Carthage Quart Hadast or New City was founded in 814 BC by Phoenician merchants who discovered that small naturally protected peninsula in the Gulf of Tunis and realized that it was the perfect place to establish a commercial base Carthage at the beginning was no different from other Phoenician settlements in Sicily Sardinia along the African coast and even beyond the Pillars of Hercules Gibraltar where Cadiz was the starting point to explore the Atlantic Carthage was a strategic position from where it could easily repel attacks from the interior of the great African continent to the south and its deep water port could accommodate a large number of merchant ships in El Krum Bay protected by its promontory from the strong north winds As the city grew an artificial harbor was built at the bottom of the bay initially intended for a few Carthaginian war galleys The Phoenicians were not a warlike people but their intense commercial activity quickly set the city apart from the other Phoenician bases Carthage became the largest merchant city in the Mediterranean
