Medical Writing in Early Modern English Irma Taavitsainen, Päivi Pahta, 2011-02-03 Medical writing tells us a great deal about how the language of science has developed in constructing and communicating knowledge in English This volume provides a new perspective on the evolution of the special language of medicine based on the electronic corpus of Early Modern English Medical Texts containing over two million words of medical writing from 1500 to 1700 The book presents results from large scale empirical research on the new materials and provides a more detailed and diversified picture of domain specific developments than any previous book Three introductory chapters provide the sociohistorical disciplinary and textual frame for nine empirical studies which address a range of key issues in a wide variety of medical genres from fresh angles The book is useful for researchers and students within several fields including the development of special languages genre and register analysis historical corpus linguistics historical pragmatics and medical and cultural history

Tasting Difference Gitanjali G. Shahani, 2020-05-15 Tasting Difference examines early modern discourses of racial cultural and religious difference that emerged in the wake of contact with foreign peoples and foreign foods from across the globe Gitanjali Shahani reimagines the contact zone between Western Europe and the global South in culinary terms emphasizing the gut rather than the gaze in colonial encounters From household manuals that instructed English housewives how to use newly imported foodstuffs to the spiced Indian air of A Midsummer Night's Dream from the repurposing of Othello as an early modern pitchman for coffee in ballads to the performance of disgust in travel narratives Shahani shows how early modern genres negotiated the allure and danger of foreign tastes Turning maxims such as We are what we eat on their head Shahani asks how did we the colonized subjects become what you the colonizing subjects eat How did we become alternately the object of fear and appetite loathing and craving Shahani takes us back several centuries to the process by which food came to be inscribed with racial character and the racial other came to be marked as edible showing how the racializing of food began in an era well before chicken tikka masala and Balti cuisine Bringing into conversation critical paradigms in early modern studies food studies and postcolonial studies she argues that it is in the writing on food and eating that we see among the earliest configurations of racial difference and it is experienced both as a different taste and as a taste of difference
