Public Secondary Education for Negroes in North Carolina, by Hollis Moody Long... [A Thesis.]. Hollis Moody Long, 1932

Public Secondary Education for Negroes in North Carolina Hollis Moody Long, 1932 Black Wilmington and the North Carolina Way John L. Godwin, 2000 In this gripping narrative of the development of the Civil Rights movement in North Carolina Dr John L Godwin brings to life the infamous case of the Wilmington Ten and the subsequent allegations of conspiracy Through extensive research and interviews he seeks to uncover some of the truth behind the actual events of the 1972 trial while at the same time drawing readers in with the compelling details of the movement s origins in North Carolina and its ultimate outcome in one community Dr Godwin underscores his effort with a comprehensive exploration of the Civil Rights movement through the eyes of the locality comparing it incisively to the earlier protests of the 1960s His portrait joins that of scholars who have sought to describe the transformation brought about by black leadership on the local and state level recounting both its victories and the frustrated hopes of local activists in addition to how the new conservatism ultimately succeeded in co opting the movement For Wilmington this is set against the background of North Carolina politics and civic culture highlighting the role of Benjamin Chavis and his rise to national prominence Filled with pictures that personalize this troubled era of American history Dr Godwin s book is an essential resource not only to historians but also to students of public policy North Carolina Public Schools ,1954 Public Secondary Education for Negroes in North Carolina, Etc Hollis Moody LONG,1932 The African American Struggle for Secondary Schooling, 1940-1980 John L. Rury, Shirley A. Hill, 2015-04-24 This is the first comprehensive account of African American secondary education in the postwar era Drawing on quantitative datasets as well as oral history this compelling narrative examines how African Americans narrowed the racial gap in high school completion The authors explore regional variations in high school attendance across the United States and how intraracial factors affected attendance within racial groups They also examine the larger social historical context such as the national high school revolution the civil rights movement campaigns to expand schooling and urging youth to stay in school and Black migration northward Closing chapters focus on desegregation and the urban crisis of the 1960s and 1970s that accelerated White flight and funding problems for urban school systems The conclusion summarizes these developments and briefly looks at the period since 1980 when secondary attainment levels stopped advancing for Blacks and Whites alike Book Highlights A comprehensive history drawing on statistical analysis archival research and interviews with African Americans who attended school in the 1940s and 1950s Lessons from the past showing how parents and local communities played the most direct and dynamic role in the fight for access to education Today s major challenges including the growth of inner city poverty and changing family structures John L Rury is professor of education and by courtesy history at the University of Kansas Shirley A Hill is professor of sociology at the University of Kansas Based on prodigious research The African American Struggle for Secondary Schooling sets a new standard of excellence in social history and policy studies The authors evocatively recreate the passions of the civil rights movement and centrality of public schools in the ongoing quest for justice opportunity and freedom William J Reese Carl F Kaestle WARF Professor of Educational Policy Studies and History University of Wisconsin Madison This book is a rich and compelling addition to the literature on secondary education generally and on secondary education for African Americans specifically It will set the standard for historical studies on American high schools for a long time to come Jeffrey Mirel David L Angus Collegiate Chair of Education Professor of History University of Michigan The African American Struggle for Secondary Schooling fills a major gap in the history of African American educational history This book will be on my shelf and will no doubt be on the shelves of scholars and students who study African American educational history Thomas V O'Brien Professor and Chair Department of Educational Studies and Research University of Southern Mississippi This is the only book length account of the growth and impact of secondary education for African Americans post 1930 With a unique and original analysis the authors frame key themes not only within the common historiographical tradition of an unfolding of growth and development over time but correctly understand that high school entailed opportunities for attainment in a broader social sense as well Michael Fultz Professor Department of Educational Policy Studies University of Wisconsin Madison
