Public Policy And Urban Crime:

The Urban Public Sector and Urban Crime Daryl A. Hellman, 1980
China Haiyan Xiong, 2015-10-19 The book selects Guangzhou which has the highest crime rate in China as a research site to study patterns of crime and social disorganization. It combines methods of content analyses with ethnographic fieldwork. The research first selected 1422 crime cases reported by the influential Southern Metropolis Daily in 2013 to identify the general crime distribution pattern. The findings suggest that both spatial and demographic density distribution of criminal cases in Guangzhou show a gradient circle pattern from city center to suburb. Focusing on three selected typical communities, the thesis finds important patterns of crime and social disorganization that are very different from Western research. These findings are organized according to major correlates of social disorganization including unemployment, marriage and family, residential stability, ethnic heterogeneity, social equality, social capital, social control, social isolation, and social exclusion, community cohesion, trust, and fear, traditions, morals, and beliefs, language. These findings extend and elaborate Social Disorganization Theory in urban China. This book can be used as a textbook for college and Ph D students majoring in law and sociology as well as a reference book for professionals in related fields. Although academic, this book is written in such a way that it will also appeal to a general audience.

Urban Crime Prevention, Surveillance, and Restorative Justice Paul Knepper, Jonathan Doak, Joanna Shapland, 2017-09-20 Crime prevention, surveillance, and restorative justice have transformed the response to crime in recent years. Each has had a significant impact on policy, introducing new concepts and reassessing traditional aims and priorities. While such efforts attract a great deal of criminological interest, they tend to be discussed within separate and discrete frameworks.

Breaking Rules: The Social and Situational Dynamics of Young People's Urban Crime Per-Olof H. Wikström, 2012-05-24 Breaking new ground in the study of crime in urban environments, Breaking Rules: The Social and Situational Dynamics of Young People's Urban Crime examines the findings, theoretical basis, and new methodology of The Peterborough Adolescent and Young Adult Development Study (PADS). This major longitudinal study investigates the role of the social environment on crime causation involving a cohort of 700 young people from the age of 12. A particular aim of PADS is to employ a new theory known as Situational Action Theory, as well as the innovative methodology of econometrics combined with space-time budgets to improve the study of young people's offending and its changes. By reviewing the current literature and analysing the theoretical and methodological problems of previous research, the book explains how Situational Action Theory can help overcome central problems in criminological theorising. Using this new and innovative framework, it presents an analysis of the urban structure of Peterborough and its correlation to the differences in social life found in that area. The variations in the urban environment are examined in terms of crime victimization and fear of crime, and a detailed examination of young persons' crime and its spatial patterns is offered through the unique space-time budget data collected within PADS that enables analyses of young people, their movements, and crime.

involvement With implications for policy and prevention as well as being the first study of its kind this book should be of great interest to policy makers and practitioners interested in issues of urban environments as well as those studying crime in the urban environment and the role of the social environment in crime causation Inequality, Crime and Public Policy (Routledge Revivals) John Braithwaite, 2013-09-13 First published in 1979 Inequality Crime and Public Policy integrates and interprets the vast corpus of existing research on social class slums and crime and presents its own findings on these matters It explores two major questions First do policies designed to redistribute wealth and power within capitalist societies have effects upon crime Second do policies created to overcome the residential segregation of social classes have effects on crime The book provides a brilliantly comprehensive and systematic review of the empirical evidence to support or refute the classic theories of Engles Bonger Merton Cloward and Ohlin Cohen Miller Shaw and McKay amongst many others Braithwaite confronts these theories with evidence of the extent and nature of white collar crime and a consideration of the way law enhancement and law enforcement might serve class interest Urban Crime Prevention Miguel Saraiva, 2022-10-28 This book provides an original cross thematic and wide scope review of crime prevention processes in urban areas that are explicitly based on the cooperation between different scientific and professional fields Focusing primarily on environmental and community based crime prevention this book compiles a peer reviewed collection of papers and prospective essays that explore how and to what extent multi disciplinarity can be used as a cornerstone for achieving safer cities Relying on the input from specialists researchers decision makers and practitioners from around the world it covers the various stages from theory to implementation by discussing theoretical stances interpreting policy and planning guidelines uncovering unique educational experiences and narrating insights and lessons learned from innovative research and practice Hence it provides vivid discussions and invaluable insights into processes of partnership building planning and management oriented towards establishing successful mechanism for preventing crime and reducing feelings of insecurity in urban areas Crime Prevention in the Urban Community Koichi Miyazawa, Setsuo Miyazawa, 2023-09-20 One of today's most pressing issues in criminology and crime prevention is the problem of crime in our cities and towns and its prevention The topic of crime prevention in the Urban Community was discussed at the 47th International Course of the International Society for Criminology ISC held at Chuo University Tokyo It was the very first time such an ISC meeting was held in Asia and this meant that finally a relatively large number of Japanese and other Asian participants were able to express their views on criminal policy and crime prevention in urban centres all over the world Crime in urban communities is not an exclusively Western phenomenon but it is also a considerable problem in other parts of the world This makes an interchange of ideas between Western Eastern and Third World criminologists particularly important General characteristics of the urban communities that suffer from a high crime rate are ethnic and racial tensions a mix of old housing areas and new business districts a prevailing sense of anonymity slums and juvenile delinquency The existence of these general characteristics

besides mutual differences makes cooperation in the crime prevention sphere definitely worth the effort The Encyclopedia of Research Methods in Criminology and Criminal Justice, 2 Volume Set J. C. Barnes, David R. Forde, 2021-09-08

Neighborhood Resilience and Urban Conflict Karina V. Korostelina, 2021-10-21

This book explores the resilience in urban neighborhoods affected by chronic conflict and violence, developing a new model for improving resilience policies The neighborhood resilience approach is an inclusive form of building positive resilience, which recognizes that local communities possess valuable skills and experience of dealing with crises and prioritizes the agency of local communities in the production of knowledge and developing practices The book identifies and describes the repertoire of neighborhood resilience practices organized in four clusters: 1. addressing the structure of conflict, 2. increasing the effectiveness of external resources, 3. enhancing the community capacities, and 4. reflecting the dynamics of identity and power in neighborhoods One of the key findings of the book is the nonlinear connections between structure and dynamics of conflict and neighborhood resilience practices represented in the Four Loops Model The concentration on community-based practices addresses macro-level critiques of neo-liberalism in critical resilience studies and encourages rethinking the ways community-based indicators might operate in combination with existing macro indicators of resilience The bottom-up indicators provide more specific details and essential localized experiences for improving resilience policies at the national level This book will be of much interest to students of conflict resolution resilience urban studies and US politics The Reflective Practitioner Donald A. Schön, 2017-03-02 A leading M I T social scientist and consultant examines five professions engineering architecture management psychotherapy and town planning to show how professionals really go about solving problems The best professionals Donald Schön maintains know more than they can put into words To meet the challenges of their work they rely less on formulas learned in graduate school than on the kind of improvisation learned in practice This unarticulated largely unexamined process is the subject of Schön's provocatively original book an effort to show precisely how reflection in action works and how this vital creativity might be fostered in future professionals
