

165 FRONT STREET EAST

The Toronto Street Railway Company built this three-storey Renaissance Revival-style stable and car barn to designs by architect H. G. Salisbury in order to house its fleet of horse-drawn streetcars. In 1891, when the Toronto Street Railway ceased operating, its successor, the Toronto Railway Company, took over the building and converted it to a steam power plant for the city's first regular electric streetcar service, which began in August 1892. A 76-metre chimney (now demolished) at the rear of the power plant was one of the tallest structures in Toronto in the 1890s. Photographers liked to take pictures of the city from the top of the chimney. In 1921, when the city-owned Toronto Transportation Commission absorbed the Toronto Railway Company, the building became a depot and warehouse. Zeidler Partnership Architects performed an extensive, award-winning renovation of the building for Young People's Theatre in 1977.

World Directory of Map Collections Olivier Loiseaux, Section of Geography and Map Libraries, 2012-01-02 No detailed description available for World Directory of Map Collections Mennonite Women in Canada Marlene Epp, 2008 Marlene Epp explores women's roles as prescribed and as lived within the contexts of immigration and settlement household and family church and organizational life work and education and in response to social trends and events She questions how Mennonites dictate women's place within the church family and community and how women collectively and individually actually behave Epp found that in virtually all aspects of women's lives there exists a contradiction between behavioural ideals and practicalities She also found that their responses to dictates about their proper place ranged from acceptance to rebellion and almost always unsettled a clear delineation of their roles Using diaries oral histories church histories genealogies and memoirs Epp has painstakingly pieced together a rich and fascinating story of Canadian Mennonite women that deserves to be read by women and men everywhere R sum de l diteur The Insect & Spider Collections of the World Ross H. Annual Report O.--CITY AUDITOR TOLEDO, Toledo (Ohio). Auditor's Office, 1891 Unguarded Border Donald W. Maxwell, 2023-05-12 The United States is accustomed to accepting waves of migrants who are fleeing oppressive conditions and political persecution in their home countries But in the 1960s and 1970s the flow of migration reversed as over fifty thousand Americans fled across the border to Canada to resist military service during the Vietnam War or to escape their homeland's hawkish society Unguarded Border tells their stories and in the process describes a migrant experience that does not fit the usual paradigms Rather than treating these American refugees as unwelcome foreigners Canada embraced them refusing to extradite draft resisters or military deserters and not even requiring passports for the border crossing And instead of forming close knit migrant communities most of these migrants sought to integrate themselves within Canadian society Historian Donald W Maxwell explores how these Americans in exile forged cosmopolitan identities coming to regard themselves as global citizens a status complicated by the Canadian government's attempts to claim them and the U S government's eventual efforts to reclaim them Unguarded Border offers a new perspective on a movement that permanently changed perceptions of compulsory military service migration and national identity Constructing National Identity in Canadian and Australian Classrooms Stephen Jackson, 2018-06-06 This book explores the evolution of Canadian and Australian national identities in the era of decolonization by evaluating educational policies in Ontario Canada and Victoria Australia Drawing on sources such as textbooks and curricula the book argues that Britishness a sense of imperial citizenship connecting white Anglo Saxons across the British Empire continued to be a crucial marker of national identity in both Australia and Canada until the late 1960s and early 1970s when educators in Ontario and Victoria abandoned Britishness in favor of multiculturalism Chapters explore how textbooks portrayed imperialism the close relationship between religious education and Britishness and efforts to end assimilationist Anglocentrism and promote equality in education The book contributes to British World scholarship by demonstrating how decolonization precipitated a massive search for identity in into the origins and evolution of trademark and branding practices in a wide range of geographical areas and periods providing key knowledge for academics professionals and general audiences on the complex world of brands The volume compiles the work of twenty five prominent worldwide scholars studying the origins and evolution of trademarks and branding practices from medieval times to present days and from distinct European countries to the USA New Zealand Canada Latin America and the Soviet Union The first part of the book provides new insights on pre modern craft marks on the emergence of trademark legal regimes during the nineteenth century and on the evolution of trademark and business strategies in distinct regions sectors and contexts As industrialisation and globalisation spread during the twentieth century trademarking led to modern branding and international marketing a process driven by new economic but also cultural factors

The second part of the book explores the cultural side of the brand and offers challenging studies on how luxury fashion culture associations and the consolidation of national identities played a key role in nowadays branding This edited volume will not only be of great value to scholars students and policymakers interested in trademark branding research but to marketing and legal practitioners as well aiming to delve into the origins of modern brand strategies The chapters in this book were originally published as two special issues of the journal Business History
