Public Relations A Contemporary Approach The Irwin Series In Marketing:

Public Relations Samuel Watson Dunn, 1986 Reassessing the Relationship between Marketing and Public Relations Lisa Dühring, 2017-04-24 Lisa Dühring reconstructs the relationship between public relations and marketing research on a metatheoretical level. She presents a concise systematization of the theoretical discourse in both disciplines since the beginning of the twentieth century by differentiating key phases of development and evaluating current research approaches. This study argues for a stronger connection of both disciplines and a better profiling within the mother disciplines of communication and business studies by fostering critical and interpretative approaches. This book is strongly recommended to everybody interested in the history and epistemology of marketing and public relations theory and the relationship between both fields.

Modern Marketing Communications Frank Jefkins, 2012-12-06 Marketing communications is a subject which has become popular in both marketing and public relations circles but sometimes with different parameters. There are those who prefer to confine marketing communications to promotional activities which is mostly an academic point of view and there are those who see the subject in broader terms embracing every form of communication used in marketing which is how the subject is practised in the business world. While the author has long experience as a teacher and examiner, he also continues to be a professional practitioner. Consequently, the book aims to serve those concerned with both the academic and the professional interpretations of marketing communications. It is of course hoped that those who adopt the academic approach to the subject will eventually acknowledge that there is more to marketing communications than advertising, sales promotion, selling, marketing research and public relations. It is also necessary to realise that public relations embraces much more than the publicity in the 4Ps promotion box. Without wishing to be contentious, this broad approach is proposed so that communications of all kinds throughout the marketing strategy can have maximum effect. Very little has been published on this subject and the book is therefore a pioneer attempt to establish the practical parameters of modern marketing communications. There are so many broad and narrow interpretations of marketing communications but it is hoped that this book will be useful to teachers, students and practitioners of the subject.

Books in Series ,1985 Vols for 1980 issued in three parts Series Authors and Titles Perspectives of Public Relations Dr. Michael Puthenthara, 2012-09-28 Deals with management Marketing Information Guide ,1954 Public Relations and Community Dean Kruckeberg, Kenneth Starck, 1988-05-23

This slim volume hits hard at one major point public relations practitioners need to abandon their dominant attitude of narrowly serving the needs of their clients and instead attempt to engender a broad based sense of community By approaching public relations from this broader perspective both the needs of the client and the community are served Implicit in this theory is that a closer knit community will retain more traditional family based values and therefore comprise a more stable and appreciative economic unit for one's client Canadian Journal of Communication Public relations is commonly viewed as using persuasive communications to achieve a client's vested goal Kruckeberg and Starck challenge this oversimplified approach asserting that public relations is a complex multi flow process that should and can affect society as a whole In Part I they examine critically the historical definition and practice of public relations outlining the shortcomings of this narrow approach Part II explores how the community itself has changed Such issues as the shift from rural to urban life and the attempt to regain a sense of community are discussed Part III attempts to reconcile the authors new notion of public relations and community through an in depth case study The results lead the authors to conclude that only if public relations is practiced as an active attempt to build a sense of community can it become a full partner in the communications milieu
