Pulping The South Third World Tree Plantations In The Global Paper Economy:

Industrial Tree Plantations and the Land Rush in China Yunan Xu, 2020-03-12 This book analyses the political and economic causes mechanisms and impacts of the industrial tree plantation boom in China In the past two decades the industrial tree plantation sector has been expanding rapidly in China especially in Guangxi Province Based on extensive primary data this book concentrates on the political economy of the sector s expansion with a focus on the recent and dramatic agrarian transformation involving the land labour nexus the impact on villagers livelihoods the role of the state and political reactions from below The book questions the stereotypical portrayal of local communities as the excluded villager Instead it demonstrates that this is a much more complex issue with varying levels of passive and active forms of inclusion and exclusion within local communities While most literature focuses on crop booms for food and biofuel production the industrial plantation sector has largely been overlooked despite it being one of the biggest sectors in the current rush for land Filling this lacuna this book also reveals that while China has traditionally been painted as a major land grabber and consumer of crop booms it is also a destination of foreign investment In doing so the book highlights how large scale foreign land deals can also take place in traditional grabber countries like China which feeds into the wider debates about global land politics and resource grabbing This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of land grabbing rural development and agrarian transformations as well as Chinese development

Pulping the South Ricardo Carriere, Larry Lohmann, 1996-08-15 The expansion of the pulp and paper industry is one of the most important causes of land and water conflicts in the South This book examines the threat to livelihood soil and biodiversity generated by large scale pulpwood plantations in the South

Tree Plantation Extractivism in Chile Alejandro Mora-Motta, 2024-03-29 This book examines how extractivism transforms territories and affects the well being of rural people drawing on in depth fieldwork conducted on tree plantations in Chile The book argues that pine and eucalyptus monoculture plantations in southern Chile are a form of extractivism representing a mode of nature appropriation that captures large amounts of natural resources to produce wooden based raw materials with little processing and an export oriented focus The book discusses the nexus of extractivism territorial transformations well being and emerging resistances using a participatory action research methodological approach in the Region of Los R os southern Chile The findings show how the configuration of an extractivist logging enclave generated a substantial and irrevocable reordering of human nature relations resulting in the territorial and ontological occupation of rural places that disrupted the fundamental human needs of peasants and indigenous people The book maintains that Chile s green growth development approach does not challenge the consolidated tree plantation enclave controlled by large multinationals Instead green growth legitimises the extractivist logic The book draws parallels with other countries and regions to contribute to wider debates surrounding these topics This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of the extractive industries development studies political ecology and natural resource governance

Capitalism in the Age of Globalization Samir Amin, 1997-02-15 This is an analysis of the increasingly differentiated regions of the South the former Eastern bloc countries and Western Europe The author integrates his economic arguments about the nature of the crisis with political arguments based on his vision of human history as the product of social response to material realities The book analyzes the rise of ethnicity and fundamentalism and deconstructs the Bretton Woods institutions notably the IMF and the World Bank as managerial mechanisms protecting the profitability of capital World Forests, Markets and Policies Matti Palo, J.
