Collip and the Development of Medical Research in Canada* Alison Li, 2003-10-27 In the early years of the twentieth century medical research in Canada was the job of a select few By mid century it had grown into a systematic large scale venture that involved teams of professional scientists and dozens of laboratories in universities government and industry J B Collip skilled both as a bench scientist and an entrepreneur played a leading role in this transformation In J B Collip and the Development of Medical Research in Canada Alison Li details how Collip leapt into prominence in 1921-22 as part of the team at the University of Toronto that isolated insulin When the Nobel Prize was awarded to Frederick Banting and J J R Macleod in 1923 Banting announced he was sharing his award with Charles Best Macleod in turn announced he was sharing his award with Collip Collip was known for his remarkable skills in making hormone extracts many of which proved to have therapeutic and therefore commercial value At McGill University in the 1930s he headed a thriving research group that carried out investigations of the pituitary and sex hormones including development of one of the first orally active estrogen products Collip's story sheds light on early negotiations between academic science and the pharmaceutical industry and on the complexities of sustaining a research laboratory before the rise of government funding As the head of the National Research Council's medical research division during its formative years Collip helped shape the foundations of organized support for medical research in Canada For Patients of Moderate Means David Paul Gagan, Rosemary Ruth Gagan, 2002 Between 1890 and 1910 scientific and technological innovation transformed the custodial Victorian charity hospital for the sick poor into the primary source of effective acute medical care for all members of society For the next half century hospitals coped with relentlessly escalating demands for accessibility by both medical indigents and a new clientele of patients able and willing to pay for hospitalization With limited statutory revenues and unpredictable voluntary support hospitals taxed paying patients through ever increasing user fees offering in return privacy comfort service and medical attendance in private and semi private wards that were more appealing to middle class patients than the stark and grudging service of the public wards Ontario Cancer Institute Ernest A. McCulloch, 2003 In The Ontario Cancer Institute Ernest McCulloch discusses how the institute dedicated to the goal of reducing the burden of cancer continuously strove for excellence and shows how both original and collaborative work were encouraged within a supportive environment To achieve this goal the institute divided its operation into four strands two of the strands were the research areas the study of advanced radiation therapy and biology which worked separately but cooperatively a third was patient care and the fourth element was leadership provided by the clinical chiefs the heads of the research divisions and the administration in particular the institute's first administrator John Law Together these strands helped create a philosophy that made the Ontario Cancer Institute unique and provided the basis for its national and international success Essential to these successes was a new graduate department Medical Biophysics based in the University of Toronto School of Graduate Studies This department which provided an innovative research based doctoral and masters program meant that the OCI could accurately be described as a centre for cancer treatment research and education McCulloch describes how the first quantitative assay for stem cells played a major role in bringing OCI research to the international stage as well as influencing other science and much of the clinical thinking in the Institute Other major advances that brought international recognition have been the identification of the mechanisms that allow cancer cells to resist death from the effects of a variety of different tumours and the isolation of the gene that encodes the T cell receptor a critical part of the immune apparatus for dealing with foreign cells and viruses McCulloch also details how lack of space to meet growing demands was a continuing source of frustration and disagreement and how sometimes serious interpersonal problems hindered the forward thrust of development Describing these events as well as institute s successes he provides an insight into the history of Canada s premier cancer research centre Push! Ivy Lynn Bourgeault,2006 In Push Ivy Lynn Bourgeault details the struggles to integrate midwifery in Ontario the first Canadian province to regulate the profession

Melissa Diane Armstrong,2020-10-22 During the apartheid era thousands of South African political activists militants and refugees fled arrest by crossing into neighbouring southern African countries Although they had escaped political oppression many required medical attention during their period of exile An Ambulance on Safari describes the efforts of the African National Congress ANC to deliver emergency healthcare to South African exiles and in the same stroke to establish political legitimacy and foster anti apartheid sentiment on an international stage Banned in South Africa from 1960 to 1990 the ANC continued its operations underground in anticipation of eventual political victory styling itself as a government in waiting In 1977 it created its own Health Department which it presented as an alternative medical service and the nucleus of a post apartheid healthcare system By publicizing its own democratic policies as well as the racist practices of healthcare delivery in South Africa the Health Department won international attention for its cause and provoked widespread condemnation of the apartheid state While the global campaign was unfolding successfully the department s provision of healthcare on the ground was intermittent as patients confronted a fledgling medical system experiencing various growing pains Still the legacy of the department would be long as many medical professionals who joined the post apartheid Department of Health in South Africa had been trained in exile during the liberation struggle With careful attention to both the international publicity campaign and on the ground medical efforts An Ambulance on Safari reveals the intricate and significant political role of the ANC s Health Department and its influence on the anti apartheid movement Carving a Niche Luz María

Hernández Sáenz,2018-02-28 The beginning of the Mexican War of Independence in 1810 triggered radical political social and economic changes including the reorganization of the medical profession During this tumultuous period of transition physicians and surgeons merged in an effort to monopolize the field and ensure their professional survival in a postcolonial liberal republic Carving a Niche traces the evolution of various medical occupations in Mexico from the end of the colonial period to the beginning of the regime of Porfirio Díaz demonstrating how competition and collaboration identity ever changing legislation political instability and foreign intervention resulted in a complex gradual and unique process of medical professionalization one that neither conformed to theoretical models nor resembled hierarchies found in other parts of the world Through extensive research Luz Mar a Hernandez Senz analyzes the uphill struggle of practitioners to claim their place as public health experts and to provide and control medical education in the face of seemingly insurmountable odds Highlighting the significance of race class gender and nationality Carving a Niche demonstrates that in the case of Mexico liberal reforms praised by traditional works often hindered rather than promoted the creation of a modern medical profession and the delivery of quality health care services
