Managerial Issues In Productivity Analysis:

Managerial Issues in Productivity Analysis Ali Dogramaci, Nabil R. Adam, 2012-12-06 A Dogramaci and N R Adam Productivity of a firm is influenced both by economic forces which act at the macro level and impose themselves on the individual firm as well as internal factors that result from decisions and processes which take place within the boundaries of the firm. Efforts towards increasing the productivity level of firms need to be based on a sound understanding of how the above processes take place. Our objective in this volume is to present some of the recent research work in this field. The volume consists of three parts. In part I two macro issues are addressed: taxation and inflation and their relation to productivity is analyzed. The second part of the volume focuses on methods for productivity analysis within the firm. Finally the third part of the book deals with two additional productivity analysis techniques and their applications to public utilities. The objective of the volume is not to present a unified point of view but rather to cover a sample of different methodologies and perspectives through original scholarly papers.

Productivity Growth and the Competitiveness of the American Economy Stanley W. Black, 2012-12-06 swollen with Deutschmarks and yen newly created to purchase unwanted dollars from the markets. When the Bundesbank and the Bank of Japan began to raise their interest rates to slow domestic monetary expansion, the fabric of international monetary cooperation began to unravel. Amid charge and counter charge by disgruntled finance ministers, the dollar dropped further and interest rates jumped upward leading to panic in the stock market. On Black Monday, fortunately, a steady hand and generous supply of credit from the Federal Reserve System prevented massive bankruptcies among Wall Street brokerage houses and a collapse of the credit system. But the world-wide reverberations of the Wall Street crash exposed the underlying weaknesses of an economy based on foreign borrowing for all to see. Furthermore, the banking system is saddled with mountains of bad debts from the Third World and depressed parts of the American economy. A new Administration entering office in 1989 must deal with these problems among others. Businesses and state and local governments need to know whether to focus their efforts on tax policy, investment and improvements in education and worker training or lobbying for protection from imports. The papers in this volume were chosen to explain the causes of present competitive problems in American industry and the factors that can lead to their gradual solution.

Proceedings of the 1990 Academy of Marketing Science (AMS) Annual Conference B. J. Dunlap, 2015-01-02
This volume includes the full proceedings from the 1990 Academy of Marketing Science AMS Annual Conference held in New Orleans, Louisiana. The research and presentations offered in this volume cover many aspects of marketing science including marketing strategy, consumer behavior, international marketing, industrial marketing, marketing education, among others. Founded in 1971, the Academy of Marketing Science is an international organization dedicated to promoting timely explorations of phenomena related to the science of marketing in theory, research, and practice. Among its services to members and the community at large, the Academy offers conferences, congresses, and symposia that attract delegates from around the world Presentations from these events are published in this Proceedings series which offers a comprehensive archive of volumes reflecting the evolution of the field Volumes deliver cutting edge research and insights complimenting the Academy s flagship journals Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science JAMS and AMS Review Volumes are edited by leading scholars and practitioners across a wide range of subject areas in marketing science Applications of Modern Production Theory Ali Dogramaci,Rolf Färe,2012-12-06 Gaining Productivity Jamal Khan,2007 Productivity Analysis Ali Dogramaci,2012-12-06 There is a wide variety of perspectives for productivity analysis The back grounds of different researchers and practitioners who work on this topic include such fields as economics business administration and industrial engineering among others Within each such field there are different schools of thought on the theory and application of productivity analysis Often it is not difficult to observe a lack of communication among the advocates of these separate schools The purpose of this book is to present in a single volume samples of alternative approaches to productivity analysis This may be considered as a first step toward a better communication among practitioners and researchers in the fields of management industrial engineering and economics The focus of the book is on the United States where the productivity growth problem has been acute for some time The book begins with a brief overview chapter that covers some of the issues involved in productivity analysis and a sample of methodological approaches presently in use After this introduction we move to Chapter 2 where Solomon Fabricant presents the issues related to measurement and analysis at the macroeconomic level In Chapter 3 C Lowell Harriss discusses concepts that he considers essential for productivity growth capital formation technological progress and freedom Local Policy-making and Management Needs Perceptions of Local Government Officials Center for Governmental Studies (Washington, D.C.),1975 Productivity In Singapore's Retail And Food Services Sectors: Contemporary Issues Mun Heng Toh,Shandre M Thangavelu,2016-11-25 The Retail and Food Services sectors play an important role in Singapore They add to the vibrancy of the economy and contribute to the social well being of Singaporeans At the same time they are often highlighted and scrutinised for their low productivity performance and high reliance on manpower There is to date a lack of local literature that addresses the issues faced by the two sectors at the enterprise and worker levels This timely book includes major topics in services productivity in the Singapore context with emphasis on Retail and Food Services Topics covered include the key productivity levers of the services sectors holistic productivity measurement framework effective entrepreneurship manpower management promotion by social media marketing costing process and accounting sophistication These areas are explored through literature reviews and in depth interviews with companies and consumers The chapters also include recommendations for policy makers and industry stakeholders Written in a simple and accessible manner this book will serve as an insightful guide to researchers policy makers industry practitioners and enterprises and those who are keen to learn from the Singapore experience
