The Little Terrorist Sheila Schwartz, 2001-05-03 This is a story of family love and loss joy and tragedy set against a background of contemporary terrorism It is particularly relevant today The heroine Elizabeth Stern is an affluent pediatric surgeon whose husband and child are killed in the Athens Airport massacre at the end of their vacation there The little terrorist is Nadja a little girl the sole survivor of an exploding automobile who is brought into the doctors operating room in upstate New York after Elizabeth pulls herself together enough to return to work Elizabeth functions like an automaton devoting her life completely to her medical work until she sees in Nadja a resemblance to her own daughter and the girl becomes more than just another patient to her She vows to save the girl especially because she had no opportunity to save her own child Gradually she begins to love Nadja fantasizing that nobody will come for the girl and she will be able to take her home put her into her daughters room and have someone to love again The antagonist initially and love interest is David Hashemi an FBI agent of Lebanese background who is assigned to the hospital because the FBI has discovered that the same plastique that blew up the World Trade Center was in the car that exploded At first Elizabeth is hostile to him She does not like the FBI resents their campus harassment during the Vietnam War is horrified by the WACO incinerations and fears that they will take Nadja away from the hospital Gradually against her will Elizabeth falls in love with David as she finds that he is a good man noble caring and brave who needs love as much as she does The major figures at the hospital are 1 Clifford Grubman the Hospital President who is romantically interested in Elizabeth and 2 Molly Quinn Elizabeths assistant nurse who is Elizabeths best friend and forces her to stay alive after the Athens massacre The FBI remains at the hospital to keep Nadja under surveillance while waiting for her to regain consciousness so that they can ask her about the cars destination Certain that a backup team will come to heart of this book are discoveries Delia Ungureanu has made in the archives of Harvard's Widener and Houghton libraries where she has found that Jorge Luis Borges and Vladimir Nabokov were greatly indebted to surrealism for the creation of the pivotal characters who brought them world fame Pierre Menard and Lolita In From Paris to Tl n Surrealism as World Literature Ungureanu explores the networks of transmission and transformation that turned an avant garde Parisian movement into a global literary phenomenon From Paris to Tl n gives a fresh account of surrealism's surprising success exploring the process of artistic transfer by which the surrealist object rapidly evolved from a purely poetic conception to a mainstay of surrealist visual art and then a key element in late modernist and postmodern fiction from Borges and Nabokov to such disparate writers as Gabriel Garc a M rquez Haruki Murakami and Orhan Pamuk in the 21st century

Automatic Woman Katharine Conley, 1996-01-01 Contemporary feminist critics have often described Surrealism as a misogynist movement In Automatic Woman Katharine Conley addresses this issue confirming some feminist allegations while qualifying and overturning others Through insightful analyses of works by a range of writers and artists Conley develops a complex view of Surrealist portrayals of Woman Conley begins with a discussion of the composite image of Woman developed by such early male Surrealists as Andr Breton Francis Picabia and Paul Eluard She labels that image Automatic Woman a term that comprises views of Woman as provocative and revolutionary but also as a depersonalized object largely devoid of individuality and volition This analysis largely confirms feminist critiques of Surrealism The heart of the book however examines the writings of Leonora Carrington and Unica Z rn two women in the Surrealist movement whose works Conley argues anticipate much contemporary feminist art and theory In concluding Conley shows how Breton's own views on women evolved in the course of his long career arriving at last at a position far more congenial to contemporary feminists Automatic Woman is distinguished by Katharine Conley's judicious understanding of how women and the image of Woman figured in Surrealism The book is an important contemporary account of a cultural movement that continues to fascinate influence and provoke us Hope and Despair Roman Payne, 2008-03-16 A feast of sensuality. Payne's third epic novel narrates the story of the beautiful young Nadja and her brooding lover Nikolai as the two come of age in a springtime garden. When their world of earthly delights fades with the dying season, the two are exiled from their pastoral romance into a fiery world of seedy urban haunts, intoxicated dreams, and electric lights. When tragedy heralds the birth of a new day, light is shed on everyone's fate as the greatest adventure of all begins: a cunning swindler sets off on a heroic voyage to find the love of his youth. Through tears of hope and despair, the landscape of this novel unfolds before us in a vast panorama of poetic prose, delighting the senses and the imagination about what is possible, what is beautiful, and what is maddening about this world. Charged with passion, these pages sing to us their erotic melancholy. Hope and Despair is both loving and frightening, a pleasure to read once and again.

Agonistics Janet Lungstrum, Elizabeth Sauer, 1997-09-11 This book examines the ambiguities inherent in the concept of the agon as a motivating conflictual force behind creative and social expression. The notion of agonistics extends far beyond the literary fame lent it by Harold Bloom to embrace all aspects of culture. The editors blend theoretical sophistication with an interdisciplinary approach and reposit the agon in a new broad context for postmodern inquiry. Taking their inspiration from Friedrich Nietzsche's essay Homer's Contest, Lungstrum and Sauer trace the evolution of the agon from its vital function in ancient Greece through modernity and onward.

Insane Passions Christine Coffman, 2006-12-12 In France in 1933 two sisters presumed to be lovers murdered the women who employed them as maids Known as the Papin affair the incident inspired not only Jean Genet's 1947 The Maids but also an essay by Jacques Lacan that presents the sisters' crime as fueled by a narcissistic homosexual drive that culminated in the assault In this new investigation of the roots of the twentieth century myth of the lesbian as madwoman Christine Coffman argues that the female psychotic was the privileged object of Lacan's effort to derive a revolutionary theory of subjectivity from the study of mental illness Examining Lacan's early writings French surrealism Djuna Barnes Nightwood and H D's homoerotic fiction in light of feminist and queer theory Insane Passions argues that the psychotic woman that fascinates modernist writers returns with a murderous vengeance in a number of late twentieth century films including Basic Instinct Sister My Sister Single White Female and Murderous Maids Marking the limit of social acceptability the psychotic lesbian repeatedly appears as the screen onto which the violence and madness of twentieth century life are projected
