the highest technical accomplishment Vol 1 p ii      Nahum Klaas Spronk,1997 In this commentary an attempt is made to prove that the book of Nahum was written in Jerusalem ca 660 BCE by a talented faithful royal scribe He used the pseudonym Nahum as an indication of his purpose to encourage the people of Judah groaning under the tyranny of the Assyrians He took his inspiration from the earlier prophetics of Isaiah and from Psalms which he probably regularly heard or sang in the temple He also used his familiarity with the Assyrian literature especially with the texts of vassal treaties and royal annals to express in fitting words the announcement of the downfall of the Assyrian empire symbolized by its capital Niniveh After the fulfilment of this prediction in 612 BCE the book of Nahum must have become very popular as it proved clear example of true prophecy It had much influence upon Habakuk and exilic prophets like the Second Isaiah and Jeremiah who interpreted its message in the new situation of the Babylonian oppression Traces of this influence are also found in the literature of the community of Qumran and in the NT      Nahum Habakkuk Zephaniah Walter Dietrich,2016-04-27 The distinctiveness of this commentary lies in its consistent rotation between synchronic and diachronic views This double perspective is directed toward the three prophetic books as a single entity toward each individual book and toward the interpretation of each pericope The result is a sophisticated picture on the one hand of the structure and intention of the texts in their final form and on the other hand of their compositional history from the second half of the 7th century to the late Old Testament period Each exegetical section opens with a precise text critically supported translation and finishes with a synthesis that attempts to make note of the lasting insights from each text and the most important results of the analysis
