in German national imaginaries gardens forests parks and rubble fields to show how racial class and gender inequalities shape contestations over today's uses and knowledges of urban nature Drawing on fieldwork with gardeners botanists migrant workers refugees public officials and nature enthusiasts while charting human and more than human worlds Stoezter offers a wide ranging ethnographic portrait of Berlin's postwar ecologies that reveals emergent futures in the margins of European cities Brimming with stories that break down divides between environmental perspectives and the study of migration and racial politics Berlin's ruderal worlds help us rethink the space of nature and culture and the categories through which we make sense of urban life in inhospitable times
