The Hibbert Journal ,1908 Divine Action, Determinism, and the Laws of Nature Jeffrey Koperski, 2019-11-28 A longstanding question at the intersection of science philosophy and theology is how God might act or not when governing the universe Many believe that determinism would prevent God from acting at all since to do so would require violating the laws of nature However when a robust view of these laws is coupled with the kind of determinism now used in dynamics a new model of divine action emerges This book presents a new approach to divine action beyond the current focus on quantum mechanics and esoteric gaps in the causal order It bases this approach on two general points First that there are laws of nature is not merely a metaphor Second laws and physical determinism are now understood in mathematically precise ways that have important implications for metaphysics The explication of these two claims shows not only that nonviolationist divine action is possible but there is considerably more freedom available for God to act than current models allow By bringing a philosophical perspective to an issue often dominated by theologians and scientists this text redresses an imbalance in the discussion around divine action It will therefore be of keen interest to scholars of Philosophy and Religion the Philosophy of Science and Theology
