The Navajo And Pueblo Silversmiths John Adair, 2015-11-06 Probably no native American handicrafts are more widely admired than Navajo weaving and Navajo and Pueblo silver work This book contains the first full and authoritative account of the Indian silver jewelry fashioned in the Southwest by the Navajo and the Zuni Hopi and other Pueblo peoples It is written by John Adair a trained ethnologist who has become a recognized expert on this craft A volume conspicuously pleasing in its format and so strikingly handsome in its profuse illustrations as to rivet your attention once it chances to fall open With the care of a meticulous and thorough scholar the author has told the story of his several years investigation of jewelry making among the Southwestern Indians So richly decorative are the plates he uses for his numerous illustrations showing the jewelry itself the Indians working at it and the Indians wearing it that the conscientious narrative is surrounded by an atmosphere of genuinely exciting visual experience The Dallas Times Herald The Navajo and Pueblo Silversmiths provides a full history of the craft and the actual names and localities of the pioneer craftsmen who introduced the art of the silversmith to their people Despite its present high stage of development with its many subtle and often exquisite designs the art of working silver is not an ancient one among the Navajo and Pueblo Indians There are men still living today who remember the very first silversmiths

Navajo Silversmiths Washington Matthews, Among the Navajo Indians there are many smiths who sometimes forge iron and brass but who work chiefly in silver When and how the art of working metals was introduced among them I have not been able to determine but there are many reasons for supposing that they have long possessed it many believe that they are not indebted to the Europeans for it Doubtless the tools obtained from American and Mexican traders have influenced their art Old white residents of the Navajo country tell me that the art has improved greatly within their recollection that the ornaments made fifteen years ago do not compare favorably with those made at the present time and they attribute this change largely to the recent introduction of fine files and emery paper At the time of the Conquest the so called civilized tribes of Mexico had attained considerable skill in the working of metal and it has been inferred that in the same period the sedentary tribes of New Mexico also wrought at the forge From either of these sources the first smiths among the Navajos may have learned their trade but those who have seen the beautiful gold ornaments made by the rude Indians of British Columbia and Alaska many of whom are allied in language to the Navajos may doubt that the latter derived their art from a people higher in culture than themselves

Indian Art of the Americas at the Art Institute of Chicago Richard F. Townsend,2016-06-28 A stunning survey of the indigenous art architecture and spiritual beliefs of the Americas from the Precolumbian era to the 20th century This landmark publication catalogues the Art Institute of Chicago s outstanding collection of Indian art of the Americas one of the foremost of its kind in the United States Showcasing a host of previously unpublished objects dating from the Precolumbian era to the 20th century the book marks the first time these holdings have been comprehensively documented Richard Townsend and Elizabeth Pope weave an overarching narrative that ranges from the Midwestern United States to the Yucat n Peninsula to the heart of South America While exploring artists myriad economic historical linguistic and social backgrounds the authors demonstrate that they shared both a deep underlying cosmological view and the desire to secure their communities prosperity by affirming connections to the sacred forces of the natural world The critical essays focus on topics that bridge traditions across North Central and South America including materials methods of manufacture the diversity of stylistic features and the iconography and functions of various objects Gorgeously illustrated in color with more than 500 vibrant images this handsome catalogue serves as the definitive survey of an unparalleled collection      Indian-made Erika Marie Bsumek,2008 In works of silver and wool the Navajos have established a unique brand of American craft And when their artisans were integrated into the American economy during the late nineteenth century they became part of a complex cultural and economic framework in which their handmade crafts conveyed meanings beyond simple adornment Bsumek unravels the layers of meaning that surround the branding of Indian made When Navajo artisans produced their goods collaborating traders tourist industry personnel and even ethnologists created a vision of Navajo culture that had little to do with Navajos themselves And as Anglos consumed Navajo crafts they also consumed the romantic notion of Navajos as primitives perpetuated by the marketplace These processes of production and consumption reinforced each other creating a symbiotic relationship and influencing both mutual Anglo Navajo perceptions and the ways in which Navajos participated in the modern marketplace Ultimately Bsumek shows that the sale of Indian made goods cannot be explained solely through supply and demand It must also reckon with the multiple images and narratives that grew up around the goods themselves integrating consumer culture tourism and history to open new perspectives on our understanding of American Indian material culture
