Myths Texts:

ALSEA TEXTS AND MYTHS LEO J. FRACHTENBERG,1920      Myth and Creative Writing Adrian May,2013-11-19

Myth and Creative Writing is a unique and practical guide to the arts of creative writing It Gives a historical perspective on the storyteller s art Takes a wide view of myth to include legends folklore biblical myth classical myth belief myths balladry and song Considers all aspects of the creative process from conception to completion Provides tips on seeking inspiration from classical and mythic sources Shows how myths can be linked to contemporary concerns Enables beginning writers to tap into the deeper resonances of myth Guides students to further critical and creative resources A secret that all writers know is that they are part of a long tradition of storytelling whether they call it mythic intertextual interactive or original And in the pantheon of storytelling myths those stories that tell us in often magical terms how the world and the creatures in it came to be are the bedrock a source of unending inspiration One can dress the study of literature in the finest critical clothing or intellectualise it until the cows come home but at its heart it is nothing more and nothing less than the study of the human instinct to tell stories to order the world into patterns we can more readily understand Exploring the mythic nature of writing by considering where the connections between instinct and art are made and where the writer is also seen as a mythic adventurer is a way of finding close links to what it is we demand from literature which is again something to do with the essences of human nature Further in the course of examining the nature of myth Adrian May provides a very practical guide to the aspiring writer whether in a formal course or working alone on how to write stories myths of their own from how to begin how to develop and how to close

Narrative, Social Myth and Reality in Contemporary Scottish and Irish Women's Writing Tudor Balinisteanu, 2009-10-02 This book offers an original interdisciplinary analysis of the relations between myth identity and social reality involving elements of narratology theory linguistics philosophy anthropology and social theory harnessed to support an argument firmly located in the area of literary criticism This analysis yields a fairly extensive reinterpretation of the concept of myth which is applied to the examination of the relationship between narrative and social reality as represented in texts by contemporary Scottish and Irish women writers The main theoretical sources are Mikhail Bakhtin's theories of heteroglossia Jacques Derrida's theories of citationality and Judith Butler's theories of subjectivity The analysis framework developed in the book uses these theories to create a new way of understanding how literary texts change readers' worldviews by enticing them to accept alternative possibilities of cultural expression of identity and social order The texts analysed in this book reconfigure naturalised stories that have become normative and constraining in conveying identities and visions of legitimate social orders The book's focus on feminine identities places it alongside feminist analyses of reconstructions of fairy tales myths or canonical stories that establish what counts as legitimate feminine identity Studied here for the first time together the writers whose texts form the interest of this book continue the revisionist work begun by other women writers who engage with the male generated literary philosophical and humanist tradition They share a view of narratives as tools for continually negotiating our identities social worlds and socialisation scenarios While the high level theoretical discourse of the first part of the book requires specialised knowledge the second part of the book offering close readings of the texts is both lively and accessible and should engage the interest of the general reader and academic alike This book is written for all those who are interested in the power words have to hold sway over our inner and outer social worlds
