Marshal Louis N. Davout And The Art Of Command Major John M. Keefe, 2015-11-06 This paper involves an in depth study of the art of command at all three levels of warfare It examines this art through the eyes of one of Napoleon's ablest Marshals Louis N Davout The paper addresses and accomplishes three primary goals First it defines the art of command and shows its relevance to modern day warfare Second the paper shows that Marshal Davout was the best of Napoleon's generals and had an art of command that rivaled the Emperor himself Finally the paper demonstrates how Davout was instrumental in winning the battle of Austerlitz The study proves that Marshal Davout displayed an art of command at Austerlitz that ensured success for Napoleon during the early phases of his Austrian campaign of 1809 It does this through a detailed analysis of his actions throughout the five days of fighting from April 19 to April 23 1809 The study then draws conclusions to help define the art of command from Davout's actions

Napoleon and English Romanticism Simon Bainbridge, 1995-11-24 Napoleon Bonaparte occupied a central place in the consciousness of many British writers of the Romantic period He was a profound shaping influence on their thinking and writing and a powerful symbolic and mythic figure whom they used to legitimize and discredit a wide range of political and aesthetic positions In this first ever full length study of Romantic writers' obsession with Napoleon Simon Bainbridge focuses on the writings of the Lake poets Wordsworth Coleridge and Southey and of Byron and Hazlitt Combining detailed analyses of specific texts with broader historical and theoretical approaches and illustrating his argument with the visual evidence of contemporary cartoons Bainbridge shows how Romantic writers constructed and contested different Napoleons as a crucial part of their sustained and partisan engagement in the political and cultural debates of the day

England and Napoleon S. E. Winbolt, 2016-09-30 This series of English History Source Books is intended for use with any ordinary textbook of English History Experience has conclusively shown that such apparatus is a valuable nay an indispensable adjunct to the history lesson It is capable of two main uses either by way of lively illustration at the close of a lesson or by way of inference drawing before the textbook is read at the beginning of the lesson The kind of problems and exercises that may be based on the documents are legion and are admirably illustrated in a History of England for Schools Part I by Keatinge and Frazer pp 377 381 However we have no wish to prescribe for the teacher the manner in which he shall exercise his craft but simply to provide him and his pupils with materials hitherto not readily accessible for school purposes The very moderate price of the books in this series should bring them within the reach of every secondary school Source books enable the pupil to take a more active part than hitherto in the history lesson Here is the apparatus the raw material its use we leave to teacher and taught Our belief is that the books may profitably be used by all grades of historical students between the standards of fourth form boys in secondary schools and undergraduates at Universities What differentiates students at one extreme from those at the other is not so much the kind of subject matter dealt with as the amount they can read into or extract from it vi In regard to choice of subject matter while trying to satisfy the natural demand for certain stock documents of vital importance we hope to introduce much fresh and novel matter It is our intention that the majority of the extracts should be lively in style that is personal or descriptive or rhetorical or even strongly partisan and should not so much profess to give the truth as supply data for inference
