Narrative And Media:

Narrative Across Media Marie-Laure Ryan, James Ruppert, John W. Bernet, 2004-01-01 Narratology has been conceived from its earliest days as a project that transcends disciplines and media The essays gathered here address the question of how narrative migrates mutates and creates meaning as it is expressed across various media Dividing the inquiry into five areas face to face narrative still pictures moving pictures music and digital media Narrative across Media investigates how the intrinsic properties of the supporting medium shape the form of narrative and affect the narrative experience Unlike other interdisciplinary approaches to narrative studies all of which have tended to concentrate on narrative across language supported fields this unique collection provides a much needed analysis of how narrative operates when expressed through visual gestural electronic and musical means In doing so the collection redefines the act of storytelling Although the fields of media and narrative studies have been invigorated by a variety of theoretical approaches this volume seeks to avoid a dominant theoretical bias by providing instead a collection of concrete studies that inspire a direct look at texts rather than relying on a particular theory of interpretation A contribution to both narrative and media studies Narrative across Media is the first attempt to bridge the two disciplines

Narrative and Media, 2005 Narrative and Media first published in 2006 applies narrative theory to media texts including film television radio advertising and print journalism Drawing on research in structuralist and post structuralist theory as well as functional grammar and image analysis the book explains the narrative techniques which shape media texts and offers interpretive tools for analysing meaning and ideology Each section looks at particular media forms and shows how elements such as chronology character and focalization are realized in specific texts As the boundaries between entertainment and information in the mass media continue to dissolve understanding the ways in which modes of story telling are seamlessly transferred from one medium to another and the ideological implications of these strategies is an essential aspect of media studies

Narrative and Media Rosemary Huisman, 2006

Transmedial Narratology and Contemporary Media Culture Jan-Noël Thon, 2016-08-01 It has become something of a cliché within the field of narratology to assert the commercial aesthetic and sociocultural relevance of narrative representations but the fact remains that narratives are everywhere Whenever we read a novel or a comic watch a film or an episode of our favorite television series or play the latest video game we are likely to engage with narrative media Similarly the intermedial adaptations and transmedial entertainment franchises that have become increasingly visible during the past few decades are at their core narrative forms Since a significant part of contemporary media culture is defined by the narratives we tell each other via various media the media studies discipline needs a genuinely transmedial narratology Transmedial Narratology and Contemporary Media Culture focuses on the intersubjective construction of storyworlds as well as on prototypical forms of narratorial and subjective representation It provides not only a method for the analysis of salient transmedial strategies of narrative representation in contemporary films comics and video games but also a theoretical frame within which medium specific approaches from literary and film narratology from comics studies and game studies and from various other strands of media and cultural studies may be employed to further our understanding of narratives across media

Jan No l Thon is a research associate in the Department of Media Studies at the University of T bingen Germany He is the coeditor of a number of books on narrative and media studies including From Comic Strips to Graphic Novels Contributions to the Theory and History of Graphic Narrative and Storyworlds across Media Toward a Media Conscious Narratology Nebraska 2014 across media moving from analyses of literary narratives in print to those found where so much cultural and artistic production occurs today computer screens Expanding the domain of literary studies from a focus on representations to the kind of simulations that characterize narratives in digital media such as those found in interactive web based digital fictions and story driven video games David Ciccoricco draws on new research in the cognitive sciences to illustrate how the cybernetic and ludic qualities characterizing narratives in new literary media have significant implications for how we understand the workings of actual minds in an increasingly media saturated culture Amid continued concern about the impact of digital media on the minds of readers and players today and the alarming philosophical questions generated by the communion of minds and machines Ciccoricco provides detailed examples illustrating how stories in virtually any medium can still nourish creative imagination and cultivate critical and ethical reflection Contributing new insights on attention perception memory and emotion Refiguring Minds in Narrative Media is a book at the forefront of a new wave of media conscious cognitive literary studies Latinos and Narrative Media F.
