Narrative Modes In Czech Literature:

Narrative Modes in Czech Literature Lubomir Dolezel, 1973-12-15 In this study of the study of the linguistic approach to narrative structures the author examines the question of point of view in fiction drawing examples from Czech literature He applies the methods of structural linguistics and literary studies as developed by the Prague Linguistic School and the modern methodology of semiotics and text theory This approach widely used in Czechoslovakia and elsewhere in Europe is not as well known as it should be in the English speaking world The essays may be read without any knowledge of the Czech language or Czech literary history All Czech examples and materials are translated into English preserving traits of the original texts which are relevant for structural analysis the original Czech of all examples appears in an appendix While the examples serve as documentation for theoretical statements they also serve to familiarize the English speaking reader with some of the major works of Czech fiction especially those of Komensk Comenius Rais apek Van ura Pujmanov Olbrachtm and Kundera These works demonstrate the continuous bond between Czech fiction and European literary traditions and offer original and profound insights into the cultural social and political experience of the Czech nation Of particular interest to specialists in Slavic studies general linguistics poetics and text theory and to students of general and comparative literature Narrative Modes in Czech Literature deals with a significant problem of poetics and makes an original constructive contribution to the theory of literature in the English language Narrative Modes in Czech Literature Lubomir Dolezel,

Handbook of Diachronic Narratology Peter Hühn, John Pier, Wolf Schmid, 2023-07-24 This handbook brings together 42 contributions by leading narratologists devoted to the study of narrative devices in European literatures from antiquity to the present Each entry examines the use of a specific narrative device in one or two national literatures across the ages whether in successive or distant periods of time Through the analysis of representative texts in a range of European languages the authors compellingly trace the continuities and evolution of storytelling devices as well as their culture specific manifestations In response to Monika Fludernik s 2003 call for a diachronization of narratology this new handbook complements existing synchronic approaches that tend to be ahistorical in their outlook and departs from postclassical narratologies that often prioritize thematic and ideological concerns A new direction in narrative theory diachronic narratology explores previously overlooked questions from the evolution of free indirect speech from the Middle Ages to the present to how changes in narrative sequence encoded the shift from a sacred to a secular worldview in early modern Romance literatures An invaluable new resource for literary theorists historians comparatists discourse analysts and linguists

Narratology Susana Onega, Jose Angel Garcia Landa, 2014-09-19 This text provides an excellent introduction and overview of Narratology a rapidly growing field in the humanities Literary narratologists have provided many key concepts and analytical tools which are widely used in the interdisciplinary analysis of such narrative features as plot point of view speech presentation ideological perspective and interpretation The introduction explains the central concepts of narratology their historical development and draws together contemporary trends from many different disciplines into common focus. It offers a compendium of the development of narratology from classical poetics to the present. The essays are all prefaced by individual forewords helping the reader to place each individual selection in context. Recent developments are assessed across disciplines highlighting the mutual influences of narratology and deconstruction, psychoanalysis, feminism, film and media studies.

This handbook provides a systematic overview of the present state of international research in narratology and is now available in a second completely revised and expanded edition. The Prague School and Its Legacy Yishai Tobin, 1988-01-01. Many of the fundamental ideas of the classical Prague School have guided or inspired much of the interdisciplinary post World War II research in linguistics, literary theory, semiotics, folklore and the arts. The Prague School promoted a humanistic and functional Leitmotiv of language as an open, flexible, adaptable and abstract system of systems used by human beings to communicate. This homage to the Prague School presents papers in five areas of research: Prague School phonology and its theoretical and methodological implications; The Prague School and functional discourse analysis; The Prague School and aspects of literary criticism; The sociological and ethnographical concerns of the Prague School; The Prague School's semiotic approach to the arts.

The Fictions of Language and the Languages of Fiction Monika Fludernik, 2003-12-16. Monika Fludernik presents a detailed analysis of free indirect discourse as it relates to narrative theory and the crucial problematic of how speech and thought are represented in fiction. Building on the insights of Ann Banfield's Unspeakable Sentences, Fludernik radically extends Banfield's model to accommodate evidence from conversational narrative, non-fictional prose and literary works from Chaucer to the present. Fludernik's model subsumes earlier insights into the forms and functions of quotation and aligns them with discourse strategies observable in the oral language. Drawing on a vast range of literature, she provides an invaluable resource for researchers in the field and introduces English readers to extensive work on the subject in German as well as comparing the free indirect discourse features of German, French and English. This study effectively repositions the whole area between literature and linguistics, opening up a new set of questions in narrative theory.

Transmedial Narratology and Contemporary Media Culture Jan-Noël Thon, 2016-08-01. It has become something of a cliché within the field of narratology to assert the commercial, aesthetic and sociocultural relevance of narrative representations, but the fact remains that narratives are everywhere. Whenever we read a novel or a comic, watch a film or an episode of our favorite television series or play the latest video game, we are likely to engage with narrative media. Similarly, the intermedial adaptations and transmedial entertainment franchises that have become increasingly visible during the past few decades are at their core narrative forms. Since a significant part of contemporary media culture is defined by the narratives we tell each other via various media the media studies discipline needs a genuinely transmedial narratology Transmedial Narratology and Contemporary Media Culture focuses on the intersubjective construction of storyworlds as well as on prototypical forms of narratorial and subjective representation It provides not only a method for the analysis of salient transmedial strategies of narrative representation in contemporary films comics and video games but also a theoretical frame within which medium specific approaches from literary and film narratology from comics studies and game studies and from various other strands of media and cultural studies may be employed to further our understanding of narratives across media Jan No l Thon is a research associate in the Department of Media Studies at the University of T bingen Germany He is the coeditor of a number of books on narrative and media studies including From Comic Strips to Graphic Novels Contributions to the Theory and History of Graphic Narrative and Storyworlds across Media Toward a Media Conscious Narratology Nebraska 2014

The Narrator Sylvie Patron, 2023 The narrator the answer to the question who speaks in the text is a commonly used notion in teaching literature and in literary criticism even though it is the object of an ongoing debate in narrative theory Do all fictional narratives have a narrator or only some of them Can narratives thus be narratorless This question divides communicational theories based on the communication between real or fictional narrator and narratee and noncommunicational or poetic theories which aim to rehabilitate the function of the author as the creator of the fictional narrative Clarifying the notion of the narrator requires a historical and epistemological approach focused on the opposition between communicational theories of narrative in general and noncommunicational or poetic theories of the fictional narrative in particular The Narrator offers an original and critical synthesis of the problem of the narrator in the work of narratologists and other theoreticians of narrative communication from the French Czech German and American traditions and in representations of the noncommunicational theories of fictional narrative Sylvie Patron provides linguistic and pragmatic tools for interrogating the concept of the narrator based on the idea that fictional narrative has the power to signal by specific linguistic marks that the reader must construct a narrator when these marks are missing the reader is able to perceive other forms and other narrative effects specially sought after by certain authors

Reported Discourse Tom Güldemann, Manfred von Roncador, 2002-09-24 The present volume unites 15 papers on reported discourse from a wide genetic and geographical variety of languages Besides the treatment of traditional problems of reported discourse like the classification of its intermediate categories the book reflects in particular how its grammatical semantic and pragmatic properties have repercussions in other linguistic domains like tense aspect modality evidentiality reference tracking and pronominal categories and the grammaticalization history of quotative constructions Almost all papers present a major shift away from analyzing reported discourse with the help of abstract transformational principles toward embedding it in functional and pragmatic aspects of language Another central methodological approach pervading this collection consists in the discourse oriented examination of reported discourse based on large corpora of spoken or written texts which is increasingly replacing analyses of constructed de contextualized utterances prevalent in many earlier treatments The book closes with a comprehensive bibliography on reported discourse of about 1 000 entries Lost in the Shadow of the Word Benjamin Paloff, 2016-12-15 2018 AATSEEL Prize for Best Book in Literary Scholarship Scholars of modernism have long addressed how literature painting and music reflected the radical reconceptualization of space and time in the early twentieth century a veritable revolution in both physics and philosophy that has been characterized as precipitating an epistemic trauma around the world In this wide ranging study Benjamin Paloff contends that writers in Central and Eastern Europe felt this impact quite distinctly from their counterparts in Western Europe For the latter the destabilization of traditional notions of space and time inspired works that saw in it a new kind of freedom However for many Central and Eastern European authors who were writing from within public discourses about how to construct new social realities the need for escape met the realization that there was both nowhere to escape to and no stable delineation of what to escape from In reading the prose and poetry of Czech Polish and Russian writers Paloff imbues the term Kafkaesque with a complexity so far missing from our understanding of this moment in literary history Slavic Poetics Roman Jakobson, Cornelis H. van Schooneveld, Dean S. Worth, 2014-11-18 No detailed description available for Slavic Poetics
