Narratives And The Making Of History:

Narratives and the Making of History Romila Thapar, 2000 These two essays explore some facets of the interface between narrative and history The first explores the versions of the story of Sakuntala The second juxtaposes the data on the raid of Mahmud of Ghazni on the temple of Somanatha Narrative and History Alun Munslow, 2018-09-19 Based on the assumption that reality reference and representation work together this introductory textbook explains and illustrates the various ways in which historians write the past as history For the first time the full range of leading narrative theorists such as Paul Ricoeur Hayden White Frank Ankersmit Seymour Chatman and Gérard Genette have been brought together to explain the narrative making choices all author historians make when creating historical explanations Combining theory with practice Alun Munslow expands the boundaries of the discipline and charts a new role for unconventional historical forms and modes of expression Clear but comprehensive this is an ideal resource for undergraduate and postgraduate students taking courses on history and theory history and method and historiography Creating Histories Wendy Singer, 1997 This book discusses stories and storytelling listening and retelling and the complex ways in which this results in the creation of historical narratives The author listened to a wide variety of stories about the Indian Freedom Movement told by people who were involved in it and set them against written historical accounts to arrive at interesting conclusions about the changes and differences between oral and recorded histories The Postmodern History Reader Keith Jenkins, 1997 The Postmodern History Reader introduces students to the new points of controversy in the study of history and provides a framework by which to understand postmodernism and a guide to explore it further Reform, Identity and Narratives of Belonging Arkotong Longkumer, 2011-11-03 Reform Identity and Narratives of Belonging focuses on the Heraka a religious reform movement and its impact on the Zeme a Naga tribe in the North Cachar Hills of Assam India Drawing upon critical studies of religion cultural ethnic identity and nationalism archival research in both India and Britain and fieldwork in Assam the book initiates new grounds for understanding the evolving notions of reform and identity in the emergence of a Heraka religion Arkotong Longkumer argues that reform and identity are dynamically inter related and linked to the revitalisation and negotiation of both tradition legitimising indigeneity and change legitimising reform The results have deepened yet challenged not only prevailing views of the Western construction of the category religion but also understandings of how marginalised communities use collective historical imagination to inspire self identification through the discourse of religion In conclusion this book argues for a re evaluation of the way in which multi religious traditions interact to reshape identities and belongings Narratives of the Beginnings of Hebrew History Charles Foster Kent, 1904 The History and Narrative Reader Geoffrey Roberts, 2001 Are historians story tellers Is it possible to tell true stories about the past These are just two of the questions raised in this comprehensive collection of texts about philosophy theory and methodology of writing history Making History with Manuscripts in Medieval and Early Modern Europe Johannes Junge

Ruhland,2025-06-02 This volume interrogates the role of the manuscript medium in conveying history to medieval and early modern readers The contributors adopt a capacious understanding of history to explore history writing in its materiality from a variety of methodological and disciplinary perspectives The core contentions of this book are that the material features of manuscripts helped shaping historical narratives and defining history conceptually and that therefore the makers of these manuscripts played an instrumental role in history writing alongside authors Ranging from the ninth to the sixteenth centuries and comprising materials from across Western Europe in Latin and the vernaculars the ten chapters of this volume uncover stakes and strategies tied to highly specific contexts such as late thirteenth century Corbie or fifteenth century Zurich yet partaking in a shared practice of history writing with manuscripts Manuscript makers made history through layout rewriting illumination compilation choice of script and annotation and conferred history writing its material dimension This volume therefore situates the writing of history in its material dimension and invites us to consider medieval and early modern historiography in its medium
