Conflict Narratives in Middle Childhood Marsha D. Walton, Alice J. Davidson, 2017-03-27 Conflict Narratives in Middle Childhood presents evidence from twenty years of research examining nearly 3 000 narratives from 1 600 children in eight settings in two countries about their own experiences with interpersonal conflict Close readings combined with systematic analysis of dozens of features of the stories reveal that when children are invited to write or talk about their own conflicts they produce accounts that are often charming and sometimes heartbreaking and that always bring to light their social emotional and moral development Children s personal stories about conflict reveal how they create and maintain friendships how they understand and react to the social aggression that threatens those friendships and how they understand and cope with physical aggression ranging from the pushing and poking of peers to criminal violence in their neighborhoods or families Sometimes children describe the efforts of adults to influence their conflicts efforts they sometimes welcome and sometimes resist Their stories show them taking on gender and other cultural commitments We are not just watching children become more and more like us as they move through the elementary school years we are watching them become the architects of a future we will only see to the extent that we understand their way of making sense

Teaching Peace and Conflict Catherine Vanner, Spogmai Akseer, Thursica Kovinthan Levi, 2022-06-14 This book illustrates the multiple roles of textbooks as victim transformer and accomplice to conflict by introducing the Intersecting Roles of Education in Conflict IREC framework for use in the research development production distribution and dissemination of textbooks and learning materials The framework illustrates these three potentially overlapping roles by mapping the complex educational contexts of conflict affected societies and considering how textbooks learning materials and education systems more broadly may simultaneously operate within these various roles Country case studies from Asia Europe Africa and the Middle East are used to analyze primary and secondary school textbook development content and application from a variety of approaches that articulate conflict as protracted and or socio political violence The breadth of case studies shows how conflict discourse circulates in educational systems and materials in a wide range of contexts indicating that the complexity of the relationship between textbooks and conflict is not unique to one culture geographic region or type of conflict Class in Late-Victorian Britain: The Narrative Concern with Social Hierarchy and its Representation Kevin Swafford, 2007
