Narratives Of Enlightenment Cosmopolitan History From Voltaire To Gibbon:

Narratives of Enlightenment Karen O'Brien, 1997-06-05 Narratives of Enlightenment is an interdisciplinary study of cosmopolitan approaches to the past. It reappraises the work of five of the most important narrative historians of the century: Voltaire, David Hume, William Robertson, Edward Gibbon, and the historian of the American Revolution David Ramsay, in the context of political and national debates in France, Scotland, England, and America, and it investigates the nature and degree of their intellectual investment in the idea of a common European civilisation. Karen O'Brien combines the methodologies of literary criticism and intellectual history to explore debates about Enlightenment and the political uses of narrative. Where previous studies have emphasised the growth of nationalism in eighteenth-century literature, she reveals the development of cosmopolitan ways of thinking beyond national cultural issues.

The Lost History of Cosmopolitanism Leigh T.I. Penman, 2020-11-26 The Lost History of Cosmopolitanism challenges our most basic assumptions about the history of an ideal at the heart of modernity. Beginning in antiquity and continuing through to today, Leigh T.I. Penman examines how European thinkers have understood words like kosmopolites, cosmopolite, cosmopolitan, and its cognates. The debates over their meanings show that there has never been a single stable cosmopolitan concept but rather a range of concepts, sacred and secular, inclusive and exclusive, all described with the cosmopolitan vocabulary. While most scholarly attention in the history of cosmopolitanism has focussed on Greek and Roman antiquity or the Enlightenment of the 18th century, this book shows that the crucial period in the evolution of modern cosmopolitanism was early modernity. Between 1500 and 1800, philosophers, theologians, cartographers, jurists, politicians, alchemists, and heretics all used this vocabulary, shedding ancient associations and adding new ones at will. The chaos of discourses prompted thinkers to reflect on the nature of the cosmopolitan ideal and to conceive of an abstract cosmopolitanism for the first time. This meticulously researched book provides the first intellectual history of an overlooked period in the evolution of a core ideal. As such, The Lost History of Cosmopolitanism is an essential work for anyone seeking a contextualised understanding of cosmopolitanism today.

What Is Global History? Sebastian Conrad, 2017-08-29 The first comprehensive overview of the innovative new discipline of global history. Until very recently, historians have looked at the past with the tools of the nineteenth century. But globalization has fundamentally altered our ways of knowing, and it is no longer possible to study nations in isolation or to understand world history as emanating from the West This book reveals why the discipline of global history has emerged as the most dynamic and innovative field in history one that takes the connectedness of the world as its point of departure and that poses a fundamental challenge to the premises and methods of history as we know it What Is Global History provides a comprehensive overview of this exciting new approach to history The book addresses some of the biggest questions the discipline will face in the twenty first century How does global history differ from other interpretations of world history How do we write a global history that is not Eurocentric yet does not fall into the trap of creating new centrism How can historians compare different societies and establish compatibility across space What are the politics of global history This in depth and accessible book also explores the limits of the new paradigm and even its dangers the question of whom global history should be written for and much more Written by a leading expert in the field What Is Global History shows how by understanding the world s past as an integrated whole historians can remap the terrain of their discipline for our globalized present Cities and the Grand Tour Rosemary Sweet,2012-10-04 A

Reason and Emotion in International Ethics Renée Jeffery, 2014-06-12 The study of international ethics is marked by an overwhelming bias towards reasoned reflection at the expense of emotionally driven moral deliberation For rationalist cosmopolitans in particular reason alone provides the means by which we can arrive at the truly impartial moral judgments a cosmopolitan ethic demands However are the emotions as irrational selfish and partial as most rationalist cosmopolitans would have us believe By re examining the central claims of the eighteenth century moral sentiment theorists in light of cutting edge discoveries in the fields of neuroscience and psychology Ren e Jeffery argues that the dominance of rationalism and marginalisation of emotions from theories of global ethics cannot be justified In its place she develops a sentimentalist cosmopolitan ethic that does not simply provide a framework for identifying injustices and prescribing how we ought to respond to them but which actually motivates action in response to international injustices such as global poverty

Ferdowsi, the Mongols and the History of Iran Robert Hillenbrand, A.C.S. Peacock, Firuza Abdullaeva, 2013-11-18 I B Tauris in association with the Iran Heritage Foundation Iran s rich cultural heritage has been shaped over many centuries by its rich and eventful history This impressive book which assembles contributions by some of the world's most eminent historians, art historians and other scholars of the Iranian world explore the history of the country through the prism of Persian literature, art and culture. The result is a seminal work which illuminates important yet largely neglected aspects of Medieval and Early Modern Iran and the Middle East. Its scope from the era of Ferdowsi, Iran's national epic poet and the author of the Shahnameh, to the period of the Mongols, Timurids, Safavids, Zands and Qajars, examines the interaction between mythology, history, historiography, poetry, painting and craftwork in the long narrative of the Persianate experience. As such, Ferdowsi, the Mongols and the History of Iran is essential reading and a reference point for students and scholars of Iranian history, Persian literature and the arts of the Islamic World.

Rethinking Historical Genres in the Twenty-First Century Jaume Aurell, 2018-03-08. This book deals with the way historical genres are theorized and practiced in the twenty-first century. In the context of the freedoms inspired by postmodernism and enabled by the development of innovative textual and graphic platforms, new theories of history view genres as flexible living forms that inspire more creative and experimental representations of the past. New ways of articulating history compete with the traditional model of historical prose. Acknowledging the current diversity in theories and practices and assuming the historicity of historical genres, this book engages the reality of historical genres today and explores new directions in historical practice by examining these new forms of representing the past. Thus, without denying the validity of traditional and conventional forms of history and arguing that these forms remain valid, this book surveys the production of what might be considered new historical genres practiced today in which the idea of practical past is put in practice. Preceded by the introduction and two theoretical articles on historical genres, some of the new forms of history analysed in this book are historical re-enactments, gaming history, social media, graphic narratives and first person narratives of memoirs of trauma and film history. This book was originally published as a special issue of Rethinking History.

Translations, Histories, Enlightenment L. Kontler, 2014-06-05. Historian and minister William Robertson was a central Scottish Enlightenment figure whose influence reached well beyond the boundaries of the British Isles. In this reception study of Robertson's work, Laszlo Kontler shows how the reception of Robertson's major histories in Germany tests the limits of intellectual transfer through translation.

Eighteenth Century English Literature Charlotte Sussman, 2013-04-18. This engaging book introduces new readers of eighteenth-century texts to some of the major works, authors and debates of a key period of literary history. Rather than simply providing a chronological survey of the era, this book analyzes the impact of significant cultural developments on literary themes and forms, including urbanization, colonial and mercantile expansion, the emergence of the public sphere and changes in sex and gender roles. In eighteenth-century Britain, many of the things we take for granted about modern life were shockingly new: women appeared for the first time on stage, the novel began to dominate the literary marketplace, people entertained the possibility that all human beings were created equal and tentatively proposed that reason could triumph over superstition, ministers became more powerful than kings and the consumer emerged as a political force. Eighteenth Century

English Literature 1660 1789 explores these issues in relation to well known works by such authors as Defoe Swift Pope Richardson Gray and Sterne while also bringing attention to less familiar figures such as Charlotte Smith Mary Leapor and Olaudah Equiano It offers both an ideal introduction for students and a fresh approach for those with research interests in the period Storia della storiografia ,2009
