Chinese Ways of Seeing and Open-Air Painting Yi Gu, 2021-02-01 How did modern Chinese painters see landscape Did they depict nature in the same way as premodern Chinese painters What does the artistic perception of modern Chinese painters reveal about the relationship between artists and the nation state Could an understanding of modern Chinese landscape painting tell us something previously unknown about art political change and the epistemological and sensory regime of twentieth century China Yi Gu tackles these questions by focusing on the rise of open air painting in modern China Chinese artists almost never painted outdoors until the late 1910s when the New Culture Movement prompted them to embrace direct observation linear perspective and a conception of vision based on Cartesian optics The new landscape practice brought with it unprecedented emphasis on perception and redefined artistic expertise Central to the pursuit of open air painting from the late 1910s right through to the early 1960s was a reinvigorated and ever growing urgency to see suitably as a Chinese and to see the Chinese homeland correctly Examining this long overlooked ocular turn Gu not only provides an innovative perspective from which to reflect on complicated interactions of the global and local in China but also calls for rethinking the nature of visual modernity there From Primitive Image to Traditional Chinese Art Anna Chung, 2014 Traditional Chinese Paintings Jiayi Zhuang, Chongzheng Nie, 2000 Nature Within Walls Elizabeth Hammer, 2003 Accompanying CD ROM includes a 10 minute narrated video tour of the garden court Page 4 of portfolio
