Natures Placehuman Populatfuture:

Sparing Nature Jeffrey K. McKee, 2003-01-03 Are humans too good at adapting to the earth's natural environment Every day there is a net gain of more than 200 000 people on the planet that's 146 a minute Has our explosive population growth led to the mass extinction of countless species in the earth's plant and animal communities Jeffrey K McKee contends yes The more people there are the more we push aside wild plants and animals In Sparing Nature he explores the cause and effect relationship between these two trends demonstrating that nature is too sparing to accommodate both a richly diverse living world and a rapidly expanding number of people The author probes the past to find that humans and their ancestors have had negative impacts on species biodiversity for nearly two million years and that extinction rates have accelerated since the origins of agriculture Today entire ecosystems are in peril due to the relentless growth of the human population McKee gives a guided tour of the interconnections within the living world to reveal the meaning and value of biodiversity making the maze of technical research and scientific debates accessible to the general reader Because it is clear that conservation cannot be left to the whims of changing human priorities McKee takes the unabashedly neo Malthusian position that the most effective measure to save earth's biodiversity is to slow the growth of human populations By conscientiously becoming more responsible about our reproductive habits and our impact on other living beings we can ensure that nature's services will make our lives not only supportable but also sustainable for this century and beyond Human Nature James Trefil, 2025-06-25 A radical approach to the environment which argues that by harnessing the power of science for human benefit we can have a healthier planet As a prizewinning theoretical physicist and an outspoken advocate for scientific literacy James Trefil has long been the public's guide to a better understanding of the world In this provocative book Trefil looks squarely at our environmental future and finds contrary to popular wisdom reason to celebrate For too long Trefil argues humans have treated nature as something separate from themselves pristine wilderness to be saved or material resources to be exploited What we need instead is a scientific approach to the environment that embraces the human transformation of nature for our benefit In Human Nature Trefil exposes the benefits of genetically modified species uncovers vital facts about droughts and global warming and points to examples of environmental management where catering to humans reaps greater rewards than sheltering other species By taking advantage of explosive advances in the sciences we can fruitfully manage the planet if we rise to the challenge Like Rachel Carson's Silent Spring and Paul Ehrlich's Population Bomb Human Nature promises to fundamentally alter the way we perceive our relationship to the Earth but with optimism rather than alarm The Nature of Man, Life and Humanity Joseph Stadtmiller, 2016-10-06 The Nature of Man Life and Humanity tells the story of the cosmos Sun and Earth the evolution of mankind expanding across the continents the tools that aided us the cultural networks that brought us together the spirituality that answered what we didn't understand Along the way we began thinking that technology could solve all of our problems our nature connection became a thing of the past

Mankind began a struggle against nature as brutal as the wars we perpetrated amongst ourselves a war taking place in the air and water with the degradation of the land the annihilation of ecosystems and biodiversity concluding with the consumption of Earth itself Climate stability is collateral damage as the human population continues to explode While much of the environmental discourse currently focuses on climate change this story is also about the issues regarding air water topsoil biodiversity energy and natural resources and how mankind is attacking each of these areas with equal disregard A Native Earth Society believes that man must coexist with nature that by living more relevant respectful and simple lives the human species can restore our well being and our future How much are we willing to give up for our children s children so they will have the chance to follow their dreams The need to restrict continuous economic growth will be opposed by many but our ultimate survival will be determined by how many of us choose to do what is right Ultimately this is a story about why we must and how we can change the way we live Our children s children are counting on us to act now reducing our numbers changing our wasteful behavior being selective about what we consume and how much we waste
