Soviet Psychology Neil O'Connor, 1961 Soviet Psychology John McLeish, 2015-12-22 Originally published in 1975 this title sets out to show us the differences between Soviet and other ways of thinking about nature man and society The basic factor distinguishing Soviet psychology is that it views phenomena from the perspective of a highly articulated body of theoretical assumptions and rejects the inductive eclecticism of Western psychology The theoretical framework within which Soviet psychology functions is the product of a distinctive socio political and cultural development in Russia profoundly shaped by the institutions of autocracy and Orthodox religion and the economic system of serfdom and the radical revolt which grew up in opposition to this and advocated materialism secularism and atheism This radical philosophic tradition in Russia best represented by the writings of Chernishevski fused with the doctrines of Marxism and the new science of behaviour developed by Sechenov and Pavlov to create the theoretical framework of Soviet psychology The book also analyses the discussions controversies and decrees which are at the root of the contemporary science of behaviour in the Soviet Union and points to the impressive body of empirical knowledge which has arisen Soviet Psychology is unique in presenting Soviet psychology from an inside point of view and in making us appreciate the strongly theoretical stance of Soviet psychology which Professor McLeish claims is unlikely to be much influenced by the new atmosphere of d tente

Psychiatry and Psychology in the USSR Samuel Corson, 2012-12-06 This book is aimed at a professional audience of psychiatrists psychologists and educators as well as Slavic studies scholars and teachers and intelligent lay readers It would be presumptuous to attempt to cover the entire field of Soviet psychiatry and psychology in one modest volume During the past several decades there has been a remarkable flourishing and diversification of research in psychology and psychiatry in the USSR What we have attempted to do in this symposium is to present a constructive critical overview of certain limited areas by arranging an interchange of observations and ideas between several American scientists knowledgeable in these fields and a psychologist and psychiatrist who obtained their education and working experience in the USSR We hope to be able to expand such symposia in the future so as to cover other important areas of these disciplines This monograph presents an eyewitness account of Pavlov by W Horsley Gantt one of three surviving students of Pavlov and to the best of my knowledge the only American who actually studied and worked with Pavlov It is a measure of Dr Gantt's devotion to the development of scientific psychiatry that he went to the USSR to spend six years in Pavlov's laboratory at a time of extreme economic hardship and political turmoil in that country and in the face of having to master a difficult language In his presentation Dr Recent Soviet Psychology N. The Art and Science of Making the New Man in Early 20th-Century Russia Yvonne Howell, Nikolai Kremontsov, 2021-12-02 The idea that morally mentally and physically superior new men might replace the currently existing mankind has periodically seized the imagination of intellectuals leaders and reformers throughout history This volume offers a multidisciplinary investigation into how the new man was made in Russia and the early Soviet Union in the first third of the 20th century The traditional narrative of the Soviet new man as a creature forged by propaganda is challenged by the strikingly new and varied case studies presented here The book focuses on the interplay between the rapidly developing experimental life sciences such as biology medicine and psychology and countless cultural products ranging from film and fiction dolls and museum exhibits to pedagogical projects sculptures and exemplary agricultural fairs With contributions from scholars based in the United States Canada the UK Germany and Russia the picture that emerges is emphatically more complex contradictory and suggestive of strong parallels with other new man visions in Europe and elsewhere In contrast to previous interpretations that focused largely on the apparent disconnect between utopian new man rhetoric and the harsh realities of everyday life in the Soviet Union this volume brings to light the surprising historical trajectories of new man visions their often obscure origins acclaimed and forgotten champions unexpected and complicated results and mutual interrelations In short the volume is a timely examination of a recurring theme in modern history when dramatic advancements in science and technology conjoin with anxieties about the future to fuel dreams of a new and improved mankind

Beyond the Brain Igor M. Arieievitch, 2017-08-24 The book outlines a fundamental alternative to the rising wave of aggressive biological reductionism and brainism in contemporary psychology and education It offers steps to achieving a daunting and elusive goal constructing a coherently non reductionist account of the mind The main obstacle to such a construction is identified as the centuries old contemplative fallacy that leads to entrenched dualisms and shackles major theoretical frameworks The alternative agentic activity perspective overcomes this fallacy by advancing the core principles of the cultural historical activity theory This innovative perspective charts a consistently non mentalist and non individualist view of psychological processes without discarding the individual mind A vast body of research and theories from Piaget and Dewey to sociocultural and embodied cognition approaches are critically engaged with a special focus on Piotr Galperin s contribution The notion of the embodied agent s object directed activity serves as a pivotal point for re conceptualizing the mind and its role in behavior In a radical departure from both the traditional mentalist and biologically reductionist frameworks psychological processes are understood as taking place beyond the brain as constituted by the agent s activities in the world From this standpoint many of Vygotsky s key insights including semiotic mediation internalization and cognitive tools are given a fresh scrutiny and substantially revised The agentic activity perspective opens ways to offer a bold vision for education developmental teaching and learning built on the premise that real knowledge is not information storage and retrieval and that education is not about knowledge transmission but instead it is about developing students minds
