

SALVAGE DESTINY

telling their contemporary experiences and the novels included in this supplement reflect that shift. It identifies Native American authors who have written long fiction on themes relevant to their history, social conditions, culture, and people, and includes all works by non-Native American authors that either have Native Americans as central characters or Native American issues as central themes. Though it concentrates on fictional works published about native people in the United States and Alaska, it also includes many works that focus on tribes from other areas of North America such as Canada, and includes all literary genres: mysteries, historical fiction, westerns, romances, and contemporary fiction. This is an imperative addition to the field that raises the awareness of Native American issues in either an historical context, a cultural or social context, or in contemporary society. For use by librarians and library collection development staff, teachers, educators, and faculty in high schools and colleges, and by the general public eager to locate and identify novels on Native American themes. Includes short critical annotations, indexes by tribal affiliation, geographical location, time period, historical persons, and events; a list of works not included; and a Best Books list of the authors' personal favorites. Moon Hunter Deanna Mascle, 2000. Left to fend for herself and infant daughter after an Indian raid in the Kentucky wilderness, Rebecca accepts the help of a handsome army scout who slowly kindles a desire she's never known and a dream of happiness she thought was lost forever.

Night After Night Kate Donovan, 2002. Determined to flee Chicago and start a new life, Maggie Gleason hires a job matchmaker and moves to scenic Shasta Falls, California, for a teaching job. Moving into a boarding house, she meets bounty hunter Alex Coburn, who finds the new lodger an unwelcome intruder. Time together leads to romance, but when anonymous threatening notes come to Maggie, Alex must face the ghosts of her past and his own. Rebel's Treasure Elizabeth Turner, 2002. With her mother dead, nothing will keep Tess Montgomery from taking possession of her inheritance: a small ranch and a mine outside of Tucson, Arizona. She discovers that her co-beneficiary is Zachary McClain, a Confederate soldier she protected ten years earlier. Their reunion is far from warm. Believing Tess betrayed him, Zach has nursed his hostility, which soon turns to passion.
