Japanese Horror Films and their American Remakes Valerie Wee,2013-10-23 The Ring 2002 Hollywood s remake of the Japanese cult success Ringu 1998 marked the beginning of a significant trend in the late 1990s and early 2000s of American adaptations of Asian horror films This book explores this complex process of adaptation paying particular attention to the various transformations that occur when texts cross cultural boundaries Through close readings of a range of Japanese horror films and their Hollywood remakes this study addresses the social cultural aesthetic and generic features of each national cinema s approach to and representation of horror within the subgenre of the ghost story tracing convergences and divergences in the films narrative trajectories aesthetic style thematic focus and ideological content In comparing contemporary Japanese horror films with their American adaptations this book advances existing studies of both the Japanese and American cinematic traditions by illustrating the ways in which each tradition responds to developments in its social cultural and ideological milieu and examining Japanese horror films and their American remakes through a lens that highlights cross cultural exchange and bilateral influence The book will be of interest to scholars of film media and cultural studies Horror Film Aesthetics Thomas M. Sipos,2014-01-10 This richly informed study analyzes how various cinematic tools and techniques have been used to create horror on screen the aesthetic elements sometimes not consciously noticed that help to unnerve frighten shock or entertain an audience The first two chapters define the genre and describe the use of pragmatic aesthetics when filmmakers put technical and budgetary compromises to artistic effect Subsequent chapters cover mise en scene framing photography lighting editing and sound and a final chapter is devoted to the aesthetic appeals of horror cinema Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here

Shaping the Future of African American Film Monica White Ndounou,2014-04-29 In Hollywood we hear it s all about the money It s a ready explanation for why so few black films get made no crossover appeal no promise of a big payoff But what if the money itself is color coded What if the economics that governs film production is so skewed that no film by about or for people of color will ever look like a worthy investment unless it follows specific racial or gender patterns This Monica Ndounou shows us is precisely the case In a work as revealing about the culture of filmmaking as it is about the distorted economics of African American film Ndounou clearly traces the insidious connections between history content and cash in black films How does history come into it Hollywood s reliance on past performance as a measure of potential success virtually guarantees that historically underrepresented underfunded and undersold African American films devalue the future prospects of black films So the cycle continues as it has for nearly a century Behind the scenes the numbers are far from neutral Analyzing the onscreen narratives and off screen circumstances behind nearly two thousand films featuring African Americans in leading and supporting roles including such recent productions as Bamboozled Beloved and Tyler Perry s Diary of a Mad Black Woman Ndounou exposes the cultural and racial constraints that limit not just the production but also the expression and creative freedom of black films Her wide ranging analysis reaches into questions of literature language speech and dialect film images and narrative acting theater and film business practices production history and financing and organizational history By uncovering the ideology behind profit driven industry practices that reshape narratives by about and for people of color this provocative work brings to light existing limitations and possibilities for reworking stories and business practices in theater literature and film

Reading Programs for Young Adults Martha Seif Simpson,2015-11-16 School and public libraries often provide programs and activities for children in preschool through the sixth grade but there is little available to young adults For them libraries become a place for work the place to research an assignment or find a book for a report but the thought of the library as a place for enjoyment is lost So how do librarians recapture the interest of teenagers This just might be the answer Here you will find theme based units such as Cartoon Cavalcade Log On at the Library Go in Style Cruising the Mall Space Shots Teens on TV and 44 others that are designed for young adults Each includes a display idea suggestions for local sponsorship of prizes a program game to encourage participation 10 theme related activities curriculum tie in activities sample questions for use in trivia games or scavenger hunts ideas for activity sheets a bibliography of related works and a list of theme related films The units are highly flexible allowing any public or school library to adapt them to their particular needs
