Critical Conversations in Philosophy of Education Wendy Kohli, 2013-09-13 Critical Conversations in Philosophy of Education presents a series of conversations expressing many of the multiple voices that currently constitute the field of philosophy of education Philosophy of education as a discipline has undergone several turns the once marginal perspectives of the various feminisms critical Marxism and poststructuralist postmodernist and cultural theory have gained ground alongside those of Anglo analytic and pragmatic thought Just as Western philosophers in general are coming to terms with the end of philosophy pronouncement implicit in postmodernism so too are philosophers of education faced with similar challenges challenges to long held moral political aesthetic and epistemological commitments The contributors take up these challenges through a dialogical structure expressing differing positions without engaging in destructive critique

Inside the Primary Classroom: 20 Years On Chris Comber, Maurice Galton, Linda Hargreaves, Debbie Wall, 2013-01-11 In recent years primary education has been the subject of continuing debate with questions of standards and their apparent decline being raised with alarming regularity Central in informing these debates has been the ORACLE study of groupwork in primary classrooms Published during the 1980s the study described in detail the daily life of the primary classroom the teaching styles used by teachers and the responses of pupils That research has now been replicated with over two thirds of the schools originally studied being revisited using the same tests and observation instruments This book presents the findings of this second round of research and is therefore unique in being able authoritatively to document the changes or lack of them in primary education and teaching practice over the last twenty years

Prescribing HIV Prevention Nicola Bulled, 2016-06-16 Critical health communication scholars point out that the acceptance of HIV risk prevention methods are bound inside inequitable structures of power and knowledge Nicola Bulled's in depth ethnographic account of how these messages are selected transmitted and reacted to by young adults in the AIDS torn population of Lesotho in southern Africa provides a crucial example of the importance of a culture centered approach to health communication She shows the clash between traditional western perceptions of how increased knowledge will increase compliance with western ideas of prevention and mixed messages offered by local religious educational and media institutions Bulled also demonstrates how structural and geographical forces prevent the delivery and acceptance of health messages and how local communities shape their own knowledge of health disease and illness This volume will be of interest to medical anthropologists and sociologists to those in health communication and to researchers working on issues related to HIV
