Arts and the Christian Life Earl Davey,2022-05-09 Many find their engagement with works of art raises questions concerning where value is found and how meaning and import are understood and experienced For persons of Christian faith a parallel question arises concerning the significance such experience holds for the Christian life and the spiritual journey This collection of essays pursues questions that address how we perceive value in our experience of the arts how this experience leads to a greater measure of human fullness and what significance engagement with the arts holds for the Christian life The author argues that human experience and the quality of our personhood are enriched in and through the imaginative life and that our spiritual lives are profoundly impacted by our aesthetic engagements An underlying assumption is that all great art all that is beautiful is inherently religious that is it embodies qualities that reflect the glory of God and is therefore valuable to the Christian life and one's spiritual experience Indeed insofar as the noetic privileges language and reason the arts and the domain of the aesthetic provide an alternate pathway by which we are able to encounter the Divine

Sensing Sacred Jennifer Baldwin, 2016-08-30 Sensing Sacred is an edited volume that explores the critical intersection of religion and body through the religious lens of practical theology with an emphasis on sensation as the embodied means in which human beings know themselves others and the divine in the world The manuscript argues that all human interaction and practice including religious praxis engages body through at least one of the human senses touch smell hearing taste sight kinestics proprioception Unfortunately body and more specifically and ironically sensation is eclipsed in contemporary academic scholarship that is inherently bent toward the realm of theory and ideas This is unfortunate because it neglects bodies physical or communal as the repository and generator of culturally conditioned ideas and theory It is ironic because all knowledge transmission minimally requires several senses including sight touch and hearing Sensing Sacred is organized into two parts The first section devotes a chapter to each human sense as an avenue of accessing religious experience while the second section explores religious practices as they specifically focus on one or more senses The overarching aim of the volume is to explicitly highlight each sense and utilize the theoretical lenses of practical theology to bring to vivid life the connections between essential sensation and religious thinking and practice
