Selected Poems 196999:

New and Selected Poems Fred Beake, 2006 Fred Beake has been writing since the late Sixties and this New and Selected provides a much needed overview of a constantly developing body of work About a third of the book is given over to the very fresh and colourful poems that have been written since he moved to South Devon in 2003 Beake has maintained an interest throughout his career in the short often very visual lyric but has also written offbeat fictions around particular characters and very musical longer pieces such as Marona and Towards the West that reflect if at a distance the poet's early interest in the French Surrealists This is an unusual poetry and hard to place in terms of the modern scene It occupies a position that is equidistant between the Imagists and Objectivists the Surrealists and much older things Maven in Blue Jeans Steven L. Jacobs, 2009 This collection of academic essays have been written in tribute to Professor Zev Garber and are divided to reflect the areas in which Professor Garber has devoted his teaching and writing energies the Holocaust Jewish Christian relations philosophy and theology history and biblical interpretation Scattering Point Jeff Gundy, 2012-02-01 Part memoir part family history part meditation on history and the present this work of creative nonfiction allows Jeff Gundy to ask what it should mean to live in the world but not of it as the traditional Mennonite saying recommends As Scattering Point moves through time and space it repeatedly questions how a modern assimilated Mennonite poet and professor might live with some kind of fidelity to his tradition and to the promises and griefs of contemporary life Scattering Point takes its title from Scattering Point Creek which has its source on the author's family farm in Illinois This book explores that place while also ranging widely from it and the Amish and Mennonites who have been associated with the area for nearly the last century It traverses the Illinois prairie to churches and caves in Europe and incorporates family stories soil geology the architecture of cathedrals and churches reflections on depression and Mennonite martyrdoms and schisms Scattering Point speaks of the great questions of history and religion the quiet lives of Amish and Mennonite men and women whose histories are almost forgotten and of our lives today Readers of all backgrounds will see something of themselves in Jeff Gundy who writes I must admit it I do love this world and many though not all of the things in it and whose quest is always for understanding that will allow us to go back into the world more able to undertake the difficult work of loving it as we should

Wordsworth's delight in humble solidities Whitman's celebration of American facts all belong to the lineage that as Tomlinson's poetry reveals takes on new expression in the modernism of Wallace Stevens and Marianne Moore This book traces Tomlinson's debt to Stevens and Moore in his poetry of the 1950s but gives special attention to the larger influence and widening of range that the art of William Carlos Williams exerted on the poetry of the 1960s and after Williams's sense of the local as a way into the universal touches a theme that has special significance for Tomlinson's Englishness and internationalism particularly in the way that this double quality gives us new insight into the poetry of other Englishmen Ivor Gurney and D H Lawrence in relation to Whitman Edward Thomas in relation to Robert Frost who also sought New World precisions to speak their nativeness The volume's close attention to the vocal grain and texture of many individual poems is especially marked in a chapter devoted to Tomlinson's politico historical poems on Danton Charlotte Corday and Machiavelli The poet not only provides a perspective on T S Eliot and Octavio Paz but in a poem about Trotsky's assassination draws on the singular American quality of Orson Welles's Citizen Kane Swigg assesses Tomlinson's stature in post war British poetry by contrasting his work with that of Philip Larkin and W H Auden and by demonstrating how much he shares with David Jones and Basil Bunting The latter two English internationalists of The Anathemata and Briggflatts have like Tomlinson won their way home to a Britain of spiritual density and concreteness
