Machine Learning Proceedings Of The Fifteenth International Conference Icm1 98:

Machine Learning Jude Shavlik,1998 Information and Recommender Systems Elsa Nègre,2015-10-02 Information is an element of knowledge that can be stored processed or transmitted It is linked to concepts of communication data knowledge or representation In a context of steady increase in the mass of information it is difficult to know what information to look for and where to find them Computer techniques exist to facilitate this research and allow relevant information extraction Recommendation systems introduced the notions inherent to the recommendation based inter alia information search filtering machine learning collaborative approaches It also deals with the assessment of such systems and has various applications Engineering Self-Organising Systems Giovanna Di Marzo Serugendo,Anthony Karageorgos,Omer F. Rana,Franco Zambonelli,2004-03-18 As information handling systems get more and more complex it becomes increasingly difficult to manage them using traditional approaches based on centralized and pre defined control mechanisms Over recent years there has been a significant increase in taking inspiration from biology the physical world chemistry and social systems to more efficiently manage such systems generally based on the concept of self organisation this gave rise to self organising applications This book constitutes a reference and starting point for establishing the field of engineering self organising applications It comprises revised and extended papers presented at the Engineering Self Organising Applications Workshop ESOA 2003 held at AAMAS 2003 in Melbourne Australia in July 2003 and selected invited papers from leading researchers in self organisation The book is organized in parts on applications natural metaphors multi cells and genetic algorithms stigmergy and atoms and evolution artificial interaction mechanisms middleware and methods and tools Computing with Spatial Trajectories Yu Zheng,Xiaofang Zhou,2011-10-02 Spatial trajectories have been bringing the unprecedented wealth to a variety of research communities A spatial trajectory records the paths of a variety of moving objects such as people who log their travel routes with GPS trajectories The field of moving objects related research has become extremely active within the last few years especially with all major database and data mining conferences and journals Computing with Spatial Trajectories introduces the algorithms technologies and systems used to process manage and understand existing spatial trajectories for different applications This book also presents an overview on both fundamentals and the state of the art research inspired by spatial trajectory data as well as a special focus on trajectory pattern mining spatio temporal data mining and location based social networks Each chapter provides readers with a tutorial style introduction to one important aspect of location trajectory computing case studies and many valuable references to other relevant research work Computing with Spatial Trajectories is designed as a reference or secondary text book for advanced level students and researchers mainly focused on computer science and geography Professionals working on spatial trajectory computing will also find this book very useful Digital Signal Processing with Kernel Methods Jose Luis Rojo-Alvarez,Manel Martinez-Ramon,Jordi Munoz-Mari,Gustau Camps-Valls,2018-02-05 A realistic and comprehensive review of joint approaches to machine learning and signal processing algorithms with application to communications multimedia and biomedical engineering systems Digital Signal Processing with Kernel Methods reviews the milestones in the mixing of classical digital signal processing models and advanced kernel machines statistical learning tools It explains the fundamental concepts from both fields of machine learning and signal processing so that readers can quickly get up to speed in order to begin developing the concepts and application software in their own research Digital Signal Processing with Kernel Methods provides a comprehensive overview of kernel methods in signal processing without restriction to any application field It also offers example applications and detailed benchmarking experiments with real and synthetic datasets throughout Readers can find further worked examples with Matlab source code on a website developed by the authors <http://github.com/DSPKM> Presents the necessary basic ideas from both digital signal processing and machine learning concepts Reviews the state of the art in SVM algorithms for classification and detection problems in the context of signal processing Surveys advances in kernel signal processing beyond SVM algorithms to present other highly relevant kernel methods for digital signal processing An excellent book for signal processing researchers and practitioners Digital Signal Processing with Kernel Methods will also appeal to those involved in machine learning and pattern recognition

Advances in Large Margin

Classifiers Alexander J. Smola, 2000 The book provides an overview of recent developments in large margin classifiers examines connections with other methods e.g. Bayesian inference and identifies strengths and weaknesses of the method as well as directions for future research The concept of large margins is a unifying principle for the analysis of many different approaches to the classification of data from examples including boosting mathematical programming neural networks and support vector machines The fact that it is the margin or confidence level of a classification that is a scale parameter rather than a raw training error that matters has become a key tool for dealing with classifiers This book shows how this idea applies to both the theoretical analysis and the design of algorithms The book provides an overview of recent developments in large margin classifiers examines connections with other methods e.g. Bayesian inference and identifies strengths and weaknesses of the method as well as directions for future research Among the contributors are Manfred Oppel Vladimir Vapnik and Grace Wahba

High-Dimensional Data Analysis in Cancer Research Xiaochun Li, Ronghui Xu, 2008-12-19 Multivariate analysis is a mainstay of statistical tools in the analysis of biomedical data It concerns with associating data matrices of n rows by p columns with rows representing samples or patients and columns attributes of samples to some response variables e.g. patients outcome Classically the sample size n is much larger than p the number of variables The properties of statistical models have been mostly discussed under the assumption of fixed p and infinite n The advance of biological sciences and technologies has revolutionized the process of investigations of cancer The biomedical data collection has become more automatic and more extensive We are in the era of p as a large fraction of n and even much larger than n Take proteomics as an example Although proteomic techniques have been researched and developed for many decades to identify proteins or peptides uniquely associated with a given disease state until recently this has been mostly a laborious process carried out one protein at a time The advent of high throughput proteome wide technologies such as liquid chromatography tandem mass spectroscopy make it possible to generate proteomic signatures that facilitate rapid development of new strategies for proteomics based detection of disease This poses new challenges and calls for scalable solutions to the analysis of such high dimensional data In this volume we will present the systematic and analytical approaches and strategies from both biostatistics and bioinformatics to the analysis of correlated and high dimensional data
