Jeremy H. Lipschultz, Michael L. Hilt

Media Process And The Social Construction Of Crime:

Media, Process, and the Social Construction of Crime Gregg Barak, 2013-10-28 First published in 1995 One of the most pervasive forms of social control in our society is the mass media The public learns from television newspapers magazines movies and books what is happening in the world and how to interpret it The problem however is that full or complete interpretations of reality are not presented In short reality itself clear and unadorned is not to be found in the information provided by the media Instead media presentations consist of those various viewpoints that succeed in capturing the minds and imaginations of the masses or in terms of the 1992 presidential campaign that successfully put the winning spin on information Barak and others believe that criminologists should participate in the various media presentations of crime and justice By bringing their knowledge to bear on media presentations criminologists can help make some news more representative and less distorted of the social reality of crime Media, Process, and the Social Construction of Crime

Public Executions Christopher S. Kudlac, 2007-08-30 The death penalty is one of the country's most controversial issues The fairness of its application is debated in coffeehouses classrooms political arenas and the media However despite its representation in the media most death cases receive surprisingly little national media attention In fact of the 1000 people executed in the United States since 1977 and the 3 500 inmates currently awaiting execution only a handful of cases can be recalled by the public Those that are memorable are so because only a few are dramatically represented in the media Why is it that those that receive the most serious penalty are virtually nameless while the death penalty in general is one of the most discussed aspects of the criminal justice system What makes some executions more newsworthy than others What are the implications of this coverage for the public's understanding of this significant issue This book looks at those death row cases that received the most intensive media coverage from the 1970s through the present and why At the same time it focuses on changes in public opinion about the death penalty and how newspaper coverage and evolving mass sentiment relate to one another Kudlac covers such celebrated cases as Karla Faye Tucker Timothy McVeigh Aileen Wuornos John Wayne Gacy and others that captured the attention of the American public and affected public opinion about the death penalty through the help of the media He considers issues such as religion politics race gender and class as he reveals the reasons for our attention to certain cases above others The book concludes with a consideration of where we go from here With new investigative techniques that have helped to exonerate some death row inmates and various other considerations that have come into play in recent cases the future of the death penalty will continue to be shaped by the media and the public media has altered institutional public police practices in a manner that is consistent with the logic of social media platforms Policing is changing to include new ways of conditioning the public cultivating self promotion and expanding social control While each case study presented here focuses on a different social media platform or format his concern is less with the particular format per se as these will undoubtedly change and more with developing suitable analytical and methodological approaches to understanding contemporary policing practices on social media sites The Oxford Handbook of Criminology Rod Morgan, Mike Maguire, Robert Reiner, 2012-04-12 The approach of the year 2000 has made the study of apocalyptic movements trendy But groups anticipating the end of the world will continue to predict Armageddon even after the calendar clicks to triple Os The SAGE Dictionary of Criminology Eugene McLaughlin, John Muncie, 2006 If the First Edition was an invaluable guide for students the Second is well nigh indispensable I can think of no better starting point for those wanting a quick fix on any given criminological topic Professor Tony Jefferson Keele University Since its initial publication in 2001 I've steadfastly kept The SAGE Dictionary of Criminology within easy reach of my desk referring to it countless times in writing articles books and lectures I've found it to be a remarkable book a comprehensive dictionary certainly but as much so a significant achievement in intellectual inquiry It may seem odd to say of a dictionary but it really is one of my favourite books the only book that can replace it on my bedside bookshelf is this Second Edition whose new entries confirm the editors grasp of contemporary criminology in all its excitement and complexity Professor Jeff Ferrell Texas Christian University The welcome inclusion of entries on contemporary theoretical and policy concerns ranging from Anti Social Behaviour Eco crime and Emotions through Forensic Anthropology Globalisation Governance and Mentoring to Sex Crime Virtual Criminology and What Works adds to the well established strengths of the first edition The entries all written by established scholars provide a clear concise and critical introduction to criminological concepts and constitute an invaluable resource for all criminology students and academics Professor Hazel Croall Glasgow Caledonian University It is unusual for a dictionary to be interesting but this one manages to be both compelling and useful for faculty and students across a range of disciplines and orientations who are commonly interested in criminology The SAGE Dictionary of Criminology is also distinctive in providing a literally encyclopaedic compendium of information that has been carefully placed in social cultural and political contexts Professor Lynn Chancer Hunter College City University of New York The list of new entries is quite impressive Once you've read them you start to wonder how come that the First Edition of The SAGE Dictionary of Criminology already felt so complete Dr Ren van Swaaningen Erasmus University Rotterdam Thoughtful evaluations of the key concepts criminologists must think about by quality contributors who include many of the world's leading criminologists Professor John Braithwaite Australian National University The Second Edition of the bestselling SAGE Dictionary of Criminology is the ultimate reference tool for students of criminology and criminal justice It provides an accessible introduction to key theories concepts and topics offering comprehensive guidance through the field The editors have brought together a group of internationally prominent
