Memoirs of Cardinal Dubois, Vol. 2 of 2 Ernest Dowson,2015-07-20 Excerpt from Memoirs of Cardinal Dubois Vol 2 of 2
Translated From the French In spite of Marechal s sinister prophecy nothing had yet transpired as to the King s desperate condition However his gloom seemed like a presentiment of his approaching end and it was visible from Fagon s air that medicine having nothing further to do with Louis XIV could already dispense with flattering him with vain hopes This old rascal who thought it an honour to be the chief lackey of Madame de Maintenon seemed paid to kill Louis XIV It was a sight to see him leaning on his cane presiding with his mocking smile over the sudorific frictions given to the august patient Baths and bleeding completed the work An old man was bound to succumb to treatment which even a young man might not have borne with impunity Pere Le Tellier was equally unmerciful towards the King s sick soul which had so long been dieted on masses and acts of contrition The Maintenon seemed grievously affected not that she greatly regretted Louis XIV but he was King and with him what did she not lose It was the beginning of the month of August and the King was no better He was not blind to his condition for he had said to Villeroi who was speaking of his projects for the new year Monsieur apply to my successor About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works      Memoirs of Cardinal Dubois.
