Gender, Lineage, And Ethnicity In Southern Africa Jean Davison,1997 Based on extensive fieldwork this study telescopes how lineage ideologies are constructed and change over time in the Zambezi River region where matriliney and patriliney coexist. The author challenges the notion that patrilineality has subsumed matrilineal formations and demonstrates that despite colonial policies that privileged patrilineal gender relations of production a preference that was extended by the postcolonial states matrilineal relations of production have been adroitly sustained and even dominate in large parts of Malawi northern Mozambique and parts of Zambia and Zimbabwe. Looking specifically at the linkages between gender and ethnicity in the construction of lineage ideologies the author offers a comparative study of women's changing status in the region and explores the implications for development policies at both the local and state levels. Reena and Other Stories

Paule Marshall,1983 This collection of Paule Marshall's short works illustrates the growth of a remarkable writer. For the first time these stories long out of print or difficult to obtain appear together in a single volume. Introducing the volume is Marshall's much acclaimed autobiographical essay 'From the Poets in the Kitchen' from the New York Times Book Review's series called 'The Making of a Writer'. This collection included newly written autobiographical headnotes to each story and 'Merle' a novella excerpted from Marshall's 1969 novel 'The Chosen Place, The Timeless People' and extensively reshaped and rewritten for this collection. It stands as an independent story about one of the most memorable women in contemporary fiction. Chicano Culture, Ecology, Politics

Devon G. Peña,1999-01-01 Until recently mainstream American environmentalism has been a predominantly white middle class movement essentially ignoring the class race and gender dimensions of environmental politics. In this provocative collection of original essays the environmental dimensions of the Chicana/o experience are explicitly expressed and debated. Employing a variety of genres ranging from poetry to autobiography to theoretical and empirical essays the voices in this collection speak to the most significant issues of environmentalism and social justice recognizing throughout the need for a pluralism of Chicana/o philosophies. The contributors provide an excellent basis for understanding how multiple Chicana/o views on the environment play out in the context of dominant social political and economic views. Chicano Culture Ecology Politics examines a number of Chicana/o ecological perspectives. How can the ethics of reciprocity present in Chicana/o agropastoral life be protected and applied on a broader scale? How can the dominant society whose economic structure is invested in placeless mobility take note of the harm caused to land based cultures? take responsibility for it and take heed before it is too late? Will the larger society be ecologically housebroken before it destroys its home? Grounded in actual political struggles waged by Chicana/o communities

The Two-Headed Household
Sarah Hamilton, 2010-11-23 The Two Headed Household is an ethnographic account of gender relations and intrahousehold decisionmaking as well as a policy oriented study of gender and development in the indigenous Andean community of Chanchalo Ecuador Hamilton's main argument is that the households in these farming communities are two headed Men and women participate equally in agricultural production and management in household decisionmaking and share in the reproductive tasks of child care food preparation and other chores Based on qualitative fieldwork and regional household survey data this book investigates the effect on women's lives of gender bias in agricultural development programs and labor and commodities markets Despite household economic reliance on these programs and markets there is extraordinary evidence of social and economic gender equality Traditional Andean kinship structures enable women and men to enter marriage as materially equal partners As seen in case studies of five women and their families the author continually encounters joint decisionmaking and shared household and agricultural responsibilities In fact it often seems that women have the final say in many decisions There is the belief that a dynamic balance of power between male and female heads provides an impetus toward mutually desired economic and social goals Despite the strong influence of the patriarchal power of the hacienda system Andean gender ideology accords women and men equal measures of physical mental and emotional fortitude The belief that maintaining traditional forms of economic collaboration helped them survive on the hacienda was reinforced under the economic and political domination of the patriarchal systems of the landed elite church and state Today these people are proud of their strong women strong families and community solidarity which they believe distinguishes them from Ecuadorean and American societies Hamilton suggests that women in developing countries should not be viewed as simply or even inevitably victims of gender biased structural or cultural institutions They may resist male bias perhaps even with the support of local level institutions The Two Headed Household demonstrates that analysis of gender relations should focus on forms of cooperation among women and men as well as on forms of conflict and will be of interest to scholars and students in anthropology gender and development and Latin American Studies Globalization: Culture and identity Roland Robertson, Kathleen E. White, 2003 Developing World, 2001-2002 Robert J.
