Dorn,1999-02-01 This book is for the reader who believes that thinking about and making art is intelligent behavior and that art as a subject in the K 12 school curriculum should not be used as an alibi for other curricular objectives It examines and makes explicit those cognitive behaviors normally associated with most higher order thinking and problem solving activity and explains how they function in the act of creative forming Its goal is ultimately to find ways to use these behaviors in the construction of an intelligent art curriculum for K 12 American schools This is perhaps the only text in the field designed to assist teachers in meeting the challenges of teaching in the Goals 2000 curriculum and evaluation reform effort acquainting them with both the National Art Standards and with the assessment processes needed in order for them to become accountable Mind in Art grapples with current and relevant theory research and unsolved problems It is cohesive as it attempts to bring together information that is only partially known even among those who are college professors And it takes a critical look at the ideas and points of view that have created divisiveness and shabby thinking in the field In this book Charles Dorn significantly advances thinking in the field of art education Impressionism: A Feminist Reading Norma Broude,2019-08-16 An original interpretation of Impressionism and nineteenth century art and culture by a noted feminist art historian This book is a pioneering reading of Impressionism from a feminist perspective by a noted art historian Norma Broude analyzes the philosophical underpinnings of landscape painting in the late nineteenth century discussing the crit Nature's Experiments and the Search for Symbolist Form Allison Morehead,2017-02-27 This provocative study argues that some of the most inventive artwork of the 1890s was strongly influenced by the methods of experimental science and ultimately foreshadowed twentieth century modernist practices Looking at avant garde figures such as Maurice Denis douard Vuillard August Strindberg and Edvard Munch Allison Morehead considers the conjunction of art making and experimentalism to illuminate how artists echoed the spirit of an increasingly explorative scientific culture in their work and processes She shows how the concept of nature s experiments the belief that the study of pathologies led to an understanding of scientific truths above all about the human mind and body extended from the scientific realm into the world of art underpinned artists solutions to the problem of symbolist form and provided a ready made methodology for fin de siècle truth seekers By using experimental methods to transform symbolist theories into visual form these artists broke from naturalist modes and interrogated concepts such as deformation automatism the arabesque and madness to create modern works that were radically and usefully strange Focusing on the scientific psychological and experimental tactics of symbolism Nature's Experiments and the Search for Symbolist Form demystifies the avant garde value of experimentation and reveals new and important insights into a foundational period for the development of European modernism Monet John House,1986-01-01 In this beautifully illustrated book John House discusses the career and painting techniques of one of the greatest Impressionist painters providing the fullest account ever written of Monet's working practices and the ways in which they evolved In so doing House throws much new light on issues central to the understanding of French Impressionist painting as a whole George Inness and the Science of Landscape Rachael Z. DeLue,2008-09-15 George Inness 1825-94 long considered one of America's greatest landscape painters has yet to receive his full due from scholars and critics A complicated artist and thinker Inness painted stunningly beautiful evocative views of the American countryside Less interested in representing the details of a particular place than in rendering the subjective mystery of nature Inness believed that capturing the spirit or essence of a natural scene could point to a reality beyond the physical or as Inness put it the reality of the unseen Throughout his career Inness struggled to make visible what was invisible to the human eye by combining a deep interest in nineteenth century scientific inquiry including optics psychology physiology and mathematics with an idiosyncratic brand of mysticism Rachael Ziady DeLue's George Inness and the Science of Landscape the first in depth examination of Inness's career to appear in several decades demonstrates how the artistic spiritual and scientific aspects of Inness's art found expression in his masterful landscapes In fact Inness's practice was not merely shaped by his preoccupation with the nature and limits of human perception he conceived of his labor as a science in its own right This lavishly illustrated work reveals Inness as profoundly invested in the science and philosophy of his time and illuminates the complex manner in which the fields of art and science intersected in nineteenth century America Long awaited this reevaluation of one of the major figures of nineteenth century American art will prove to be a seminal text in the fields of art history and American studies American Art to 1900 Sarah Burns,John Davis,2023-09-01 From the simple assertion that words matter in the study of visual art this comprehensive but eminently readable volume gathers an extraordinary selection of words painters and sculptors writing in their diaries critics responding to a sensational exhibition groups of artists issuing stylistic manifestos and poets reflecting on particular works of art Along with a broad array of canonical texts Sarah Burns and John Davis have assembled an astonishing variety of unknown little known or undervalued documents to convey the story of American art through the many
