Resources in Education ,1997 Technology in Retrospect Richard A. Diem, Michael J. Berson, 2010-06-01 January 2009 marked the 25th anniversary of one of the most famous three minutes of television history. It was during half time of the 1984 Super Bowl that APPLE show cased its new Macintosh Computer in an avant guard commercial. In the following three weeks sales of the new computer in both the public and private sectors took off leading some to note this occasion as the true start of the information age. At the same time schools joined this so called information revolution and began to use the new technology in various forms in a much more serious manner. Given both the changing nature of technology as well as its classroom applications over the past quarter century this work is goal is to capture the historical trends of both use and application of information technology in the social studies during this era. This is done by providing a retrospective view from 1984 through 2009 of where we we been where we are and a view of new tools and strategies and possible studies that are emerging that can enhance our understanding of the effects that technology has and will have on the social studies.
