Abstraction in Post-War British Literature 1945-1980 Natalie Ferris,2022-03-29 In a catalogue note for the 1965 exhibition Between Poetry and Painting at the Institute of Contemporary Arts the poet Edwin Morgan probed the relationship between abstraction and literature Abstract painting can often satisfy but abstract poetry can only exist in inverted commas Language may be fragmented rearranged or distorted abstract in so far as it is withdrawn from a particular system of knowledge but Morgan was of the mind that to be wholly disruptive was to deprive a poem of its point as an object of contemplation Whilst abstract art may have come to fulfil or fortify an impression of post war taste abstraction in literature continued to be treated with suspicion But how does this speak to the extent to which Britain's literary culture was responsive to progress compared to its artistic culture Abstraction in Post War British Literature 1945 1980 traces a line of literary experimentation in post war British literature that was prompted by the aesthetic philosophical and theoretical demands of abstraction Spanning the period 1945 to 1980 it observes the ways in which certain aesthetic advancements initiated new forms of literary expression to posit a new genealogy of interdisciplinary practice in Britain At a time in which Britain became conscious of its evolving identity within an increasingly globalised context this study accounts for the range of Continental and Transatlantic influences in order to more accurately locate the networks at play Exploring the contributions made by individuals such as Herbert Read Ian Hamilton Finlay and Christine Brooke Rose as well as by groups of practitioners It brings a wide range of previously unexplored archival material into the public domain and offers a comprehensive account of the evolving status of abstraction across cultural institutional and literary contexts

the events of the decade Studio ,1984 Studio International ,1984 Marxism and the History of Art Andrew Hemingway,2006-07-20 This book is the first comprehensive introduction to Marxist approaches to art history Although the aesthetic was a crucial part of Marx and Engels s thought they left no full statement on the arts Although there is an abundant scholarship on Marxist approaches to literature the historiography of the visual arts has been largely neglected This book encompasses a range of influential thinkers and historians including William Morris Mikhail Lifshits Frederick Antal Francis Klingender Max Raphael Meyer Schapiro Walter Benjamin Henri Lefebvre and Arnold Hauser It also addresses the heritage of the New Left In the spirit of Marxism the authors interpret the achievements and limitations of Marxist art history in relation to the historical and political circumstances of its production providing an indispensable introduction to contemporary radical practices in the field Art, Design, Craft, Beauty and All Those Things... Donald Richardson,2023-08-18 Responding to many recent calls for redress and restitution Richardson summarises the historical and current situation and attributes its problematics to the fact that theorists and historians have taken the concept art as a generic that includes both design and craft which are actually and validly distinguishable from art by application of the concept functional or else ignored the two entirely Considering the conceptual he maintains calls into question the view that the three may be sub classes of the one class whereas in a work of art typically there is a resolution of the tension between form and content in works of design and craft the resolution is between form and function How this recognition can clarify the issue informs the entire book The book s other major thesis is the realisation that aesthetic values are inherently human and that therefore they apply not only to art but to life in general Far from being frivolous or a mere emotion the aesthetic is a sense of equivalent psychic status to sight and hearing and like them is employed at almost every moment of our daily lives which fact grounds art design and craft deeply in human life This is reflected in the universal use of the human form including the exhibition of sexual characteristics in art The eternal conflict between making art and making a living from making art is examined and contrasted to the rarely recognised but positive role of design in planning and industry Richardson also critiques common theories of representation and composition including creativity Albertian perspective and scientific and geometric theories of beauty and composition also the relevance of the camera and the computer in the field
