Selfworth School Of Learning:

Self-worth and School Learning Martin V. Covington, Richard G. Beery, 1976 Handbook of Psychology: Educational psychology Irving B. Weiner, Donald K. Freedheim, 2003 Includes established theories and cutting edge developments Presents the work of an international group of experts Presents the nature origin implications an future course of major unresolved issues in the area Making the Grade Martin V. Covington, 1992-04-24 Achievement behaviour in schools can best be understood in terms of attempts by students to maintain a positive self image For many students trying hard is frightening because a combination of effort and failure implies low ability which is often equated with worthlessness Thus many students described as unmotivated are in actuality highly motivated not to learn but to avoid failure Students have a variety of techniques for avoiding failure ranging from cheating to setting low goals which are easily achieved In Making the Grade Martin Covington extracts powerful educational implications from self worth theory and other contemporary views of motivation that will be useful for everyone concerned with the educational dilemmas we face He provides a comprehensive insightful review of research and theory both contemporary and historical on the topic of achievement motivation and arranges this knowledge in ways that lead to imminently practical recommendations for restructuring schools

Encyclopedia of Early Childhood Education Leslie R. Williams, Doris Pronin Fromberg, 2012 This Encyclopedia is a reference work about young children in the USA designed for use by policy makers community planners parents of young children teacher and early childhood educators programme and school administrators among others The field of early childhood education has been affected by changes taking place in the nation s economy demographics schools communities and families that influence political and professional decisions The Encyclopedia provides an opportunity to define the field against the background of these influences and relates the field of early childhood education to its diverse contexts and to the cultural and technological resources currently affecting it

The Routledge International Handbook of Creative Learning Julian Sefton-Green, Pat Thomson, Ken Jones, Liora Bresler, 2011-07-15 The concept of creative learning extends far beyond Arts based learning or the development of individual creativity It covers a range of processes and initiatives throughout the world that share common values systems and practices aimed at making learning more creative This applies at individual classroom or whole school level always with the aim of fully realising young people s potential Until now there has been no single text bringing together the significant literature that explores the dimensions of creative learning despite the work of artists in schools and the development of a cadre of creative teaching and learning specialists Containing a mixture of newly commissioned chapters reprints and updated versions of previous publications this book brings together major theorists and current research Comprising of key readings in creative education it will stand as a uniquely authoritative text that will appeal to those involved in initial and continuing teacher education as well as research academics and policy specialists Sections include a general introduction to the field of creative learning arts learning traditions with sub sections on discrete art forms such as drama and visual art accounts of practice from artist teacher partnerships whole school change and reforms curriculum change assessment evaluative case studies of impact and effect global studies of policy change around creative learning

Becoming a Secondary School Teacher Peter Fleming, 2013 This book explores the skills roles and knowledge needed to become a secondary school teacher

Self-Esteem in Children with Special Educational Needs Peter W. Gurney, 2018-09-03 First published in 1988 The mounting concern in schools over widespread failure in academic achievement greater disaffection in children and the lack of confidence in many school leavers are highlighted by the difficulties experienced by children who have special educational needs Within this group the importance of the child's evaluation of him or herself i.e self esteem is a neglected issue This book investigates how the level of self esteem appears to influence social behaviour and school performance in children with special educational needs It discusses the practical steps that can be taken to assess and enhance self esteem in children with special needs and evaluates their effectiveness The author emphasises the discrepancy between the performance of children who have special educational needs in ordinary classrooms with that achieved in special settings He argues that the negative impact on a child's self esteem created by placing him/her in an ordinary classroom may outweigh the benefits of greater integration A full and informative treatment of both the theoretical and practical implications of a neglected subject this text book is suitable for experienced special educational needs teachers and those undergoing teacher training as well as psychologists with an academic interest in the self concept or a professional involvement in assessing children
