Steinberg, 2016-12-29 The classic reference work that provides annually updated information on the countries of the world French Women Orientalist Artists, 1861-1956 Mary Kelly, 2021-07-26 This book is the first full length study dedicated to French women Orientalist artists Mary Kelly has gathered primary documentation relating to seventy two women artists whose works of art can be placed in the canon of French Orientalism between 1861 and 1956 Bringing these artists together for the first time and presenting close contextual analyses of works of art attention is given to artists cross cultural interactions with painted sculpted representations of the Maghreb particularly in Algeria Tunisia and Morocco Using an interdisciplinary open platform of discussion approach Kelly builds on established theory which places emphases on the gendered gaze This entails a discussion on women s painted perspectives of and contacts with Muslim women as well as various Maghrebi cultures and land all the while remaining mindful of the subject position of the French artist and the problematic issues which can arise when discussing European made ethnographic scenes Kelly argues that French women s perspectives of the Maghreb differed from the male gaze and were informed by their artistic training and social positions in Europe In so doing French women s socio cultural modernity is also examined Moreover executed between 1861 and 1956 the works of art presented show influences of Modernism therefore this book also pays close attention to progressive Realism and Naturalism in art and the Orientalist shift into Modernist subject matter and form Through this research into French women Orientalists Kelly engages with important discussions on the crossing view of the historical female other with the cultural other artistic hybridity and influence in art as well as the postcolonial response to French activities in colonial Algeria and the protectorates of Tunisia and Morocco On giving focus to women s art and the impact of cross cultural interchanges this book rethinks Orientalism in French art This book will be of particular interest to scholars in the history of art gender studies history and Middle Eastern and North African studies Modern Morocco William Hepburn Cozens-Hardy, 1919 For centuries Morocco remained closed to all European influences and except to a small extent to European trade Till 1900 when the total import and export trade of Morocco only reached 2 327 131 the country remained practically unknown and little interest was taken in its future or in its commercial possibilities But political events brought Morocco to the fore and wider attention began to be bestowed on that country which situated in such close proximity to Europe had been left in a state of barbarism and abandonment General Introduction People of Salé Kenneth L. Brown, 1976 egypt was a black race Akan Takruri, 2017-01-11 This book list all of the DNA evidence showing that Egypt was a black race The Medina Marcello Balbo, 2012-03-22 The countries of the southern Mediterranean enjoy a rich and diverse cultural heritage At the heart of this heritage lie the medinas the historic city centres often dating back to medieval times A source of pride and collective belonging they have nevertheless been subject to neglect and decay under the combined pressures of demographic growth urbanization and modernization At present the historic city centres are in danger of being irreversibly marginalized Even though the cultural heritage value of these historic city centres is now widely recognized no coherent restoration policy is being implemented only a number of historic monuments and prestigious building are being restored or converted into expensive hotels and restaurants The dilemma between preserving the physical fabric of the medinas and protecting the social context remains unresolved The Medina brings together a team of experienced professionals including urban planners architects economists sociologists financial experts and representatives from international organizations and Mediterranean governments to address the pressing problem of how to revitalise and restore the medinas in a sustainable way Arguing for a comprehensive and integrated approach the authors set out different scenarios for the development of these historic urban centres and strategies for their restoration The first part of the book provides an introduction to the problems and issues involved in restoration Importantly it does so against a backdrop of the economic social and urban development that the countries are predicted to undergo The second part provides examples of different medinas including Damascus Cairo Meknes Azzemmour and presents important material on the financing of such initiatives It is expected that by 2030 nearly 80 per cent of the inhabitants of the Mediterranean countries will live in towns This represents an enormous challenge and suggests that the region s social and economic future will largely depend on management of the urban reality Controlling the development of the heart of the towns and cities and in particular the medinas will play a vital role in preserving the cultural and social capital of the Mediterranean countries whilst retaining their considerable potential as attractions This important and timely book presents a unique and pioneering contribution to realising that aim Morocco Felice Aarons,2007 Features information on accommodations restaurants festivals and seasonal events mosques palaces museums ruins and other sights and an essay on Moroccan history and life The Statesman's Year-Book M. Epstein,2016-12-23 The classic reference work that provides annually updated information on the countries of the world
