Violence against Women and Girls Jennifer L. Solotaroff, Rohini Prabha Pande, 2014-09-04 This report documents the dynamics of violence against women in South Asia across the life cycle from early childhood to old age It explores the different types of violence that women may face throughout their lives as well as the associated perpetrators male and female risk and protective factors for both victims and perpetrators and interventions to address violence across all life cycle stages The report also analyzes the societal factors that drive the primarily male but also female perpetrators to commit violence against women in the region For each stage and type of violence the report critically reviews existing research from Afghanistan Bangladesh Bhutan India Maldives Nepal Pakistan and Sri Lanka supplemented by original analysis and select literature from outside the region Policies and programs that address violence against women and girls are analyzed in order to highlight key actors and promising interventions Finally the report identifies critical gaps in research program evaluations and interventions in order to provide strategic recommendations for policy makers civil society and other stakeholders working to mitigate violence against women in South Asia

Against Marriage Clare Chambers, 2017 Against Marriage argues that marriage violates both equality and liberty and should not be recognized by the state Clare Chambers shows how feminist and liberal principles require creation of a marriage free state one in which private marriages whether religious or secular would have no legal status Part One makes the case against marriage Chambers investigates the critique of marriage that has developed within feminist and liberal theory Feminists have long argued that state recognised marriage is a violation of equality Chambers endorses the feminist view and argues in contrast to recent egalitarian pro marriage movements that same sex marriage is not enough to make marriage equal The egalitarian case against marriage is the most fundamental argument of Against Marriage But Chambers also argues that state recognised marriage violates liberty including the political liberal version of liberty that is based on neutrality between conceptions of the good Part Two sets out the case for the marriage free state Chambers criticizes recent arguments that traditional marriage should be replaced with either a reformed version of marriage such as civil partnership or a purely contractual model of relationship regulation She then sets out a new model for the legal regulation of personal relationships Instead of regulating by status the state should regulate relationships according to the practices they involve Instead of regulating relationships holistically assuming that relationship practices are bundled together in one significant relationship the marriage free state regulates practices on a piecemeal basis The marriage free state thus employs piecemeal practice based regulation It may regulate private marriages including religious marriages so as to protect equality But it takes no interest in defining or protecting the meaning of marriage
