Beveridge Various, 2021-02-25 William Beveridge 1879-1963 was a key figure in the modernization of British economic and social policy who published widely on unemployment and social security Among his most notable works and reprinted in this set are Full Employment in a Free Society 1944 and Pillars of Security 1943 Beveridge's Report on social insurance was published in 1942 It proposed that all people of working age should pay a weekly national insurance contribution In return benefits would be paid to people who were sick unemployed retired or widowed

Beveridge included as one of three fundamental assumptions the fact that there would be a National Health Service of some sort. Beveridge's arguments were widely accepted. He argued that welfare institutions would increase the competitiveness of British industry in the post-war period not only by shifting labour costs like healthcare and pensions onto the public account but also by producing healthier, wealthier and more productive workers. Beveridge saw full employment as the pivot of the social welfare programme he expressed in the 1942 report. As well as making available some of Beveridge's key and in some case lesser known works, this set includes as its final volume an indispensable overview of Beveridge and his prolific work.

Four of the talks were monologues by Beveridge: The Changing Family, The Family and the Population Question, Nature and Nurture and The Enduring Family, a first impression of the returns. The others were dialogues: Hugh Dalton and Eleanor Barton of the Women's Co-operative Guild on The Economics of Family Life; Beveridge and Morris Ginsberg on The Family as a Social Group; and Beveridge and Jennie Laurel Adamson on Some Problems for Solution. The talks were part of an attempt by the BBC to collect information from listeners which would be useful for social scientists. The BBC would arrange the talks and distribute; collect the forms and the LSE would analyse the forms. Parliamentary Papers Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons, 1907.
