Dirkson,2024-07-23 Honorable Mention 2025 Joe Trotter First Book Award given by the Urban History Association Explores how concerns about poverty induced Black crime cultivated by police journalists and city officials sparked a rise in tough on crime policing in Philadelphia During the Great Migration of African Americans to the North Philadelphia s police department journalists and city officials used news media to create and reinforce narratives that criminalized Black people and led to police brutality segregation and other dehumanizing consequences for Black communities Over time city officials developed a system of racial capitalism in which City Council financially divested from social welfare programs and instead invested in the police department promoting a tough on crime policing program that generated wealth for Philadelphia s tax base in an attempt to halt white flight from the city Drawing from newspapers census records oral histories interviews police investigation reports housing project pamphlets maps and more Hope and Struggle in the Policed City draws the connective line between the racial bias African Americans faced as they sought opportunity in the North and the over policing of their communities of which the effects are still visible today Menika B Dirkson posits that the tough on crime framework of this time embedded itself within every aspect of society leading to enduring systemic issues of hyper surveillance the use of excessive force and mass incarceration Hope and Struggle in the Policed City makes important contributions to our understanding of how a city government s budgetary strategy can function as racial capitalism that relies on criminal scapegoating Most cogently it illustrates how this perpetuates the cycle of poverty induced crime inflates rates of incarceration and police brutality and marginalizes poor people of color The Last Martin Jonathan Friesen,2011-04-05 Thirteen year old Martin Boyle the most fearful hypochondriac born into a family of worriers doesn t want to visit the family cemetery Truth is none of the Boyles are thrilled about the annual trip to visit their war dead It shames Mr Boyle to think of his once courageous family line and Mrs Boyle is certain the greenish moss growing on the headstones carries disease But after strict no touch warnings from Mrs Boyle and an anti bacterial scrub down Martin ventures into the private cemetery for a grim remembrance He s surrounded by stones that bear his name Martin the Boyle family name has been given to the firstborn male in each Boyle household for centuries While his father offers a speech honoring Martins who have gone before Martin wanders among his ancestors Writing on the old headstones is hardly legible and he scratches at birth and death dates with a stick His analytical mind gravitates toward the numbers and his stomach sinks The pattern is clear Martin 1770 1819 Martin 1819 1835 Martin 1835 1899 Martin 1899 1956 Martin 1956 1996 There s always a Martin Only one Martin Martin panics Not because he was born in 1996 that only fits but because his uncle and aunt are expecting their first child a boy in three months Tradition dictates they will name him Martin He s seen the graveyard He has proof of the curse When the next Martin is born he ll die Martin s parents believe the cemetery pattern is a coincidence and a sign that their son needs professional help It s a belief that s about to get stronger because their son with the help of a homeless boy named Poole is about to make his first decision of consequence with twelve weeks until the baby s arrival and no time to waste Martin chooses to live Little does he know that the key to his survival the cornerstone of the curse lies embedded

Martin Van Buren James M. Bradley, 2024 In early June 1824 Martin Van Buren New York s junior United States senator went to Virginia to meet Thomas Jefferson a man whose character conduct and principles formed my beau ideal of thorough patriotism and accomplished statesmanship Van Buren would one day write Eighty one ailing and chased by creditors the former president never refused guests even though the frequent entertaining added to his money woes An air of mystery surrounded the visit In Washington word spread that Van Buren was heading South but only a handful of people knew what lay behind his trip It was a presidential election year and several high profile politicians were seeking the office One of them was the US Treasury secretary William H Crawford Van Buren was backing Crawford whose campaign was in serious trouble An official benediction from Jefferson patriarch of the Republican Party could turn Crawford s fortunes around But people did not ask ex presidents for endorsements then and ex presidents were not supposed to give them Van Buren had little use for such niceties though he recognized that a trip to Monticello might be viewed unfavorably and wanted it kept quiet Mention this to no one except Mr Crawford he wrote in a letter to Asbury Dickins a Treasury clerk and Crawford aide Provided by publisher
